HOOVER'S DRY POSITION PUZZLES

Legislature To Adopt Santa Ana River Water Project

COMMITTEE TO REPORT FAVORABLY

Program of Five Projects To Cost $180,000,000 To Be Given Support

COMPLETING REPORT

Support of Southern California Needed to Put Over Big State Plan

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A comprehensive state water program, involving the expenditure of $180,000,000 upon five major projects, was being completed here today by the joint legislative water committee for recommendation to the legislature.

The projects recommended are as follows:

1. The $85,000,000 Kennett or Coram dam on the upper Sacramento river.

2. A $5,000,000 industrial fresh water canal to run along the industrial areas of the upper San Francisco bay, taking the place of a salt water barrier.

3. A $25,000,000 system of booster dams at the mouth of the San Joaquin river, designed to lift surplus water from the Sacramento river and transfer it to the parched farm lands of San Joaquin valley.

4. The $50,000,000 Friant dam on the San Joaquin river in Fresno county.

5. State aid of $15,000,000 toward construction of flood control works of the Santa Ana river, affecting Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

Supplementary reports will be filed by two members of the committee, Sen. Will R. Sharkey of Martinez and Assemblyman Robert P. Easley of Antioch, it is understood. Both legislators feel that a salt water barrier should be made part of the main program, even though it is not constructed immediately.

The only projects recommended by the Hoover-Young water committee in its recent report were the Kennett and Friant dams, although mention was made of a fresh water industrial canal.

Immediate relief for the farm lands of southern San Joaquin valley, now drying up for want of water, would be provided under the proposed Friant dam. The program involves the purchase of some $4,000,000 worth of water rights now held by Miller and Lux and other interests for grazing lands in Madera county and storing it in the large dam in that river.

Whether or not the state could gain title to these water rights was the subject of heated discussion in the committee.

Kennett reservoir, agreed upon by both commissions, will doubtless be the starting point for a co-ordinated water program for California.

Its benefits would be five-fold—for flood control, electric power development, salt water control, improved navigation, domestic water supply and irrigation. Like Boulder dam on the Colorado river, Kennett would pay for itself

ALMA RUBENS PASSES AWAY IN HOLLYWOOD

Once Famous Star of Stage and Screen Dies From Pneumonia Attack

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The checkered career of Alma Rubens, stage and screen star, came to a peaceful and sudden end last night when she died of pneumonia.

Miss Rubens, once acclaimed the most beautiful actress of the screen, was stricken four days ago in her Hollywood apartment. She was removed to the home of Dr. Charles F. Pfleuger, a close friend. There she lapsed into unconsciousness, and after 48 hours of peaceful sleep, died at 7:25 p. m.

Her estranged husband, Ricardo Cortez, did not arrive before her death, but her mother, Mrs. Theresa Rubens, a sister, Mrs. Hazel Large; and her husband's brother, Stanley Cortez, were with her.

Miss Rubens gained much unfavorable publicity when it was learned that she was a drug addict. A long battle which she waged against narcotics aroused admiration for her fighting qualities and gained many friends for her.

Narcotics first were administered to her during an illness by a New York physician, Miss Rubens told friends. A few months later, further opiates became necessary and it was not long before she was taking them for every real or imaginary ill, she said.

Her addiction became known when she attacked a physician who was taking her to a sanitarium for treatment.

Later she entered the state hospital at Spadra of her own accord. After a spectacular escape, she returned voluntarily to be transferred to the state hospital at Patton.

A year ago, she announced that she had conquered her habit. Aided by friends, she began a fight to regain her popularity and appeared in a short play at the Writer's club. Then, with her husband, she appeared on the stage in New York.

A few months ago she returned

PUBLISHER JAILED FOR INCOME FRAUD

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Frank S. Hoag, Pueblo publisher, entered the Pueblo county jail today to serve five months for income tax fraud.

Hoag appeared in federal court at 10 a. m. when the sentence was imposed by District Judge J. Foster Symes. Hoag also was fined $1500 and the costs of the government's prosecution of him.

Hoag pleaded guilty late Tuesday, was denied probation, and sentenced. The sentence was set aside, however, until today.

COST OF LIVING IN 6.2 PER CENT DROP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The cost of living decreased 6.2 per cent last year, according to department of labor statistics gathered in 32 cities.

Most prominent item in the decline was food, which showed a decrease of 7.2 per cent in the last half of the year alone. The average drop in all items in the department's cost of living index for that period was 3.5 per cent.

JURY STILL DELIBERATING IN DAISY DEVOE THEFT CASE

EXPLOSION OF GAS IN LUNGS CAUSES DEATH

Anaesthetic Ignited During Operation Is Verdict of Jury

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A mysterious electric spark ignited anaesthetic gases in the lungs of Mrs. Mina Maude Branton, 44, as she lay on a Hollywood hospital operating table late yesterday, and the woman's death resulted, a coroner's jury decided here today.

Although the jury fixed the cause of death, the members were unable to determine what was responsible for the forming of the spark, which was not seen by doctors and nurses in attendance at the operation.

Mrs. Branton, wife of the Rev. Harry Branton, Chino, was being operated upon by Dr. Charles A. Warmer of the Detwiler building, for an abdominal condition, the coroner's jury was told. The anaesthetician, applying a mixture of ether, oxygen and nitrous oxide to Mrs. Branton's face, was Dr. J. T. Stout, a specialist.

Dr. Cora King, director of the physical therapy department of the hospital, handled an electro-therapy machine, an auxiliary to the surgery.

Drs. Vernon Andrews and James Bozarth were also in attendance as assistants to Dr. Warmer, or, as "guest" physicians. The Rev. Mr. Branton also witnessed the fatality.

Testimony at the inquest developed the belief that the explosion of the anaesthetic gases in the lungs of the victim resulted from a spark of static electricity in the air possibly produced from friction caused by the movement of some fixture in the operating room and possibly with atmospheric conditions aiding in the formation of the spark.

Dr. Stout gave a graphic description of the explosion, said to be almost unknown in the western part of the United States.

The doctor said he had been applying the anaesthetic, a substitute for chloroform and widely used in the profession, for about 20 minutes. Then he lifted the edge of the mask to determine from Mrs. Branton's face the state of relaxation.

The explosion lifted the mask about two inches from the patient's face in a sudden jerk, according to the doctor. A whisp of smoke floated away from her mouth.

Dr. Stout declared that the stool on which he sat near Mrs. Branton was equipped with rubber coverings to prevent sparks. He was of the opinion the mystery spark may have sprung from Mrs. Branton's hair.

Dr. Warmer, who was operating, testified briefly. He said he looked at the patient when he heard the slight concussion and saw she was beyond aid.

"We could talk here all day, and I am sure no one ever will know where the spark came from that caused the explosion," Dr. Warmer said.

Dr. Warmer said he did not think

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC HITS BRITISH ISLES

LONDON, Jan. 22.— (UP) —An epidemic of influenza, said by medical authorities to be seasonal and not of a serious character, swept Great Britain and several parts of Europe today.

Britain suffered theheaviest death toll. The average number of deaths weekly in the British isles was estimated at 100. The epidemic grew more severe in London, where there were 33 deaths last week, or double the number of the previous week.

Troops quartered at Aldershot were attacked by the invisible enemy Sunday. Two hundred men had been confined to hospitals today.

Officials of the ministry of health worked night and day to combat the spread of the epidemic and the public was advised by the press on the best way of escaping the influenza germs.

Debate Over Dry Report Opens Today

Both Wets and Drys Try to Draw Consolation Out of Recommendations

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Debate in which both wets and drys sought to draw consolation from the Wickersham report broke out in the house today. It was a forerunner to an organized effort by the wets to restrict enforcement funds carried in the justice department appropriation.

Representative Balanton, Democrat, Texas, precipitated the argument when he assailed the commission in general and described President Hoover's procedure in appointing it as "ridiculous."

Referring to the $500,000 appropriation that the commission used as extravagant and wasteful, Blanton said, "we all knew what the report would be."

Sale of five per cent beer, produced under government supervision but sold tax free and permit free, and the sale of light wines and hard liquors by drug stores under the medicinal clause of the present law, was advocated by Representative Hull, Republican, Ill.

He said the permit system for sale of wines and liquors by drug stores would free physicians from the necessity of writing prescriptions. He advocated his plan only in case a modification or repeal of the 18th amendment proves impossible.

Another bill to relieve physicians of the present prescription restriction was indicated by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York.

The bill would permit unlimited liquor prescriptions.

COUPLE TAKEN FROM BURNING BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Firemen today saved Representative and Mrs. William B. Bankhead, of Alabama, from flames which swept into their apartment from an adjoining house.

One fireman was injured when embers seared his face as he was carrying Mrs. Bankhead down a ladder. Damage to the Bankhead apartment and the one next door was estimated at $15,000.

The Bankheads recently returned from New York, where they welcomed their actress-daughter, Tullulah, on her return from a triumphant theatrical season in London. Miss Bankhead is enroute to Hollywood.

BARONESS SUICIDE

SHANGHAI, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Baroness Paulitte Depidoll, wife of Baron Charles Depidoll, of Luxembourg, died today at a local hospital. Physicians attributed her death to poison taken last Saturday after her return from Japan with Sir Frederick Whyte, advisor to the Nanking government.

The baron in a formal statement said he had been estranged from Baroness Depidoll since last October.

BANDITS HOLD UP OHIO TRAIN AND GET $2500

Passengers Aroused From Sleep and Relieved of Valuables

BELLEFONTAINE, O., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Six bandits held up a Detroit-Cincinnati Big Four train at Grants, near here, early today, shot one passenger and robbed seven others of $2500 in cash and jewelry and then escaped as the train entered Bellefontaine.

Edwin K. Nelson, jr., 180 Baltic Circle, Tampa, Fla., was shot through the lung when he made an outcry as the bandits sought to search him.

All the victims were occupants of a sleeping car, which the bandits entered when the passengers were asleep. They were aroused, forced to accompany the outlaws to the dressing room and there robbed.

The train was held up as it lay on a siding at Grants, awaiting another train to pass. Wearing red masks, the outlaws entered from a day coach ahead and began rousing the passengers from their berths. Prodded by guns, they were forced to march down the aisles to the smoking room where others had proceeded them and there placed under guard of four of the bandits.

After all the passengers had been robbed, they were compelled to remain silent while the train continued toward Bellefontaine. As it pulled into the yards, the outlaws withdrew with a final warning to their victims to remain silent, threw open the vestibule door and jumped out. Police believe the spot where they alighted had been marked and that they were awaited there by accomplices with cars in which they escaped.

Nelson's condition was regarded as serious. The bullet penetrated his left lung and he was in a semi-conscious condition, unable to furnish an account of the holdup.

An extensive search was immediately instituted after the alarm had been sounded and authorities in a wide area were ordered to watch roads leading out of Bellefontaine. The outlaws were believed to have boarded the train at Toledo.

Wife's Operation May Cause Death Of Nebraska Man

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Francis L. Duffy was almost dead today because of his wife's operation.

Duffy insisted upon watching physicians operate upon Mrs. Duffy. During the operation, he fainted and struck his head on the floor, fracturing his skull.

Mrs. Duffy was said today to be recovering, but her husband's condition was not so favorable and it was feared he might die of the injury.

ONE-MAN COMMITTEE GIVEN REWARD FOR HIS KINDNESS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 22.—(PCNS)—Tommy Thomas of El Centro today was rewarded for his kindness to Governor James Rolph jr. during the primary election campaign

He was named superintendent of state highway maintenance in the Imperial valley.

Tommy was the sole reception committee of one who met Rolph and his party upon their arrival in El Centro last summer.

In answer to a letter from the governor, Tommy wired that he would like the job of highway superintendent and it was no sooner asked than granted.

"I told him he could have whatever he wanted," said the governor, "and I have kept my word."

Tommy was instructed to report Monday for duty to E. G. Sullivan, district highway engineer at San Bernardino.

But the publicity already given Tommy brought new worries to James I. Herz, deputy director of public works.

Herz wanted to give him work as a timekeeper at $165 a month but the governor said the position wasn't good enough.

Other's heard about it, however, and Herz's office was flooded today with applicants for the job.

"Why they besieged me on all sides," said Herz. One of the applicants was a former sheriff. But I'm going to hold the place open a while until I look around further. Maybe there's another 'Tommy' somewhere who we must take care of."

Jurors of 1922 Still Have Bottle of Wine

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—The special grand jury of 1922 has met again and its bottle of rare old wine is still unopened.

The jury met in September, almost nine years ago, and was in session 13 months investigating political graft scandals.

When the long session ended, the members were presented the bottle of wine with instructions they open it "when prohibition ends."

Each year since then the jurors have re-assembled once. Yesterday they discussed the Wickersham commission report—and did not open the bottle of wine.

No Verdict Is Reached Late Today

Defendant Appears Early In Court and Waits to Learn Fate

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—(UP)—While Daisy De Voe waited calmly in court, a jury of seven middle-aged men and women sat in a nearby room in the hall of justice today and deliberated upon her guilt or innocence on 35 counts of grand theft charged by Clara Bow, screen star.

The jury was returned to the hall of justice shortly after 9 a. m., after a night spent under lock in a downtown hotel. Approximately four and one-half hours had been spent in debate when the jury reconvened after breakfast.

Daisy was accompanied to Judge William C. Doran's court by Albert Mathes, her fiance, and her sister, Mrs. Grace Black.

"People ask me if I am nervous," the blonde defendant said. "Of course not. They will either find me guilty or innocent and that is all there is to it. I am sure the jury will decide for me."

The defendant had abandoned the chic black ensemble she wore during the 10 days she was no trial and wore a brown camel's hair coat, a brown, wrapped turban, trimmed in white, a brown dress, a brown and white checkered scarf, brown pumps and biege gloves.

Clara Bow, recovering from a severe cold in her Beverly Hills home, was not present as her former secretary and confidante awaited news from the jury.

The jurors spent their first few hours today without requiring any additional exhibits to be sent to them or without asking for reading of testimony.

The only indication as to what was taking place behind the locked doors came last night when the jurors filed back into the courtroom for a few minutes to ask enlightenment on certain technicalities. During this occasion, however, Ralph Henry Boynton, foreman, took the opportunity to ask in behalf of the jury if it was necessary for the jurors to return unanimous verdicts on each of the 35 counts alleged in the indictment.

The question was taken as indication that the jurors had taken several ballots and disagreement had cropped up in at least some of the counts.

COMMITTEE PASSES IMMIGRATION BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A 90 per cent reduction in immigration, to begin next July 1, and to extend two years, was approved today by the house immigration committee, which reported favorably a measure by Representative Free, Republican, California.

The bill would reduce all present immigration quotas for two years by 90 per cent of present quotas.

The measure applies to Canada, Central and South America, as well as other countries. The Philippine islands would be given a quota of 500 annually. The bill also would permit admission of 300 highly skilled and technical laborers a year.

MEYER NOMINATION BACK TO COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Nomination of Eugene Meyer jr., to be governor of the federal reserve board was recommitted today to the senate banking and currency committee for further consideration after Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, complained on the floor of the senate he had been refused an opportunity to question Meyer prior to the favorable committee report.

The nomination was re-committed by unanimous consent. Senators who said they would vote to confirm Meyer insisted it would be his desire, in view of charges brought against him, to "exculpate" himself.

FLINT MURDER BROUGHT UP IN RADIO HEARING

Testimony In Shuler Case Centers Around Slaying of Banker

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Testimony at the Rev. R. P. (Bob) Shuler radio license hearing today centered largely around the murder of Motley Flint, Los Angeles banker, by Frank D. Keaton, a middle-aged Inglewood real estate man.

Attorneys for the Rev. Mr. Shuler, seeking renewal of his license for KGEF against organized opposition led by George Lyon and former City Prosecutor Lloyd C. Nix, attempted to convince Examiner Ellis Yost that a booklet "Julian Thieves in Politics" had been planted on Keaton after his arrest for the murder of Flint in a superior courtroom.

Chief of Police Roy Steckel, called by Phil Dodson, defense counsel, denied that police officer Earl Kynette, who assertedly found the booklet in Shuler's effects, had been demoted. The chief explained Kynette had been transferred from the detective bureau to a uniform. He said the officer always had held the rank of a uniformed patrolman.

The Rev. Mr. Shuler came back to the witness stand to testify of a broadcast on KGEF in which he told his listeners the booklet was "planted."

Officer Kynette, recalled at his own request, declared that Shuler's charge that a reporter for a Hearst paper handed him the booklet and that he had slipped it into Keaton's belongings was "ridiculous."

Shuler detailed for Examiner Yost his version of the "booklet episode" in the crime for which Keaton now faces the gallows at San Quentin prison.

"My program manager, Mr. Stentz, got a telephone call from a man who said he was a public official and stated the whole thing was a 'frame up'," Shuler testified. "Later two men who would not give their names but who wore official badges visited me at my home and told me that a Hearst newspaper reporter was behind the planting. I asked them to take their information to District Attorney Buron Fitts but they were afraid that such action might cost them their jobs.

Under cross examination the minister declared he did not know the names of any of his informers in the booklet matter.

"You say these two men wore Deputy Sheriffs' badges," Attorney Thomas Littlepage, counsel for the minister's opponents said. "Were there any representatives of the sheriff's office present when Keaton was searched?"

"No, I guess not," Shuler replied, "but I didn't question the source of their information."

RIVERSIDE BARS CLARA BOW MOVIE

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Clara Bow's latest motion picture has been barred from Riverside by the board of censorship "because of notoriety" given the screen star in a Los Angeles trial, Mrs. Jessie Joslyn, chairman, said today.

But Walter Kofeldt, manager of the theater where the picture was scheduled to be shown starting today, said that he will run the film anyway.

The board of censorship planned to meet to determine future action if the ban was broken.

FRIENDS SAY NOT OPPOSED TO REVISION

IS SECOND QUANDARY

Those Close to Chief Executive Declare He Has Open Mind On Subject

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A second quandary in connection with the Wickersham report arose today when President Hoover was represented in some quarters as being not necessarily opposed to revision of the 18th amendment, but only to the specific changes conditionally suggested by the commission.

Mr. Hoover's letter transmitting the report to congress was generally interpreted at the time as a definite stand against any tampering with the amendment. Today, however, a number of his friends insisted that the president still is open minded on the whole prohibition situation.

The first mystery developed when it was found individual members of the commission, in their separate statements attached to the report, had expressed disagreement with recommendations which on inspection of the report, seemed to be non-existent. These sections, presumably, had to do with recommendation for revision of the 18th amendment. The United Press was informed by a source close to the president that such recommendations had been removed from the report at the president's insistence and although denials have been made by Chairman Wickersham of the commission, no other explanation of the conflicts have been forthcoming.

When the president transmitted the report to congress his language was immediately interpreted as placing him on record against revision of the amendment.

The president, in his message said:

The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view. * * * I do,

$150,000 INVOLVED IN 2 REALTY DEALS

Approximately $150,000 was involved in real estate transactions consummated today between two pioneers of this section.

The two deals started when W. W. Armstrong sold to Segerstrom brothers his 60 acres at Greenville, Armstrong closing out all of his holdings in the Greenville district. The seller has lived all his life on a ranch of which the 60 acres originally comprised a part.

The purchasers now own many acres of valuable land in the district and have frequently enlarged their holdings by purchasing property in that vicinity.

Following sale of his acreage, Armstrong purchased a 20 acre orange grove from Cood Adams. The grove is located on Prospect avenue, adjoining an orchard owned by Sam Nau.

There is no residence on the tract purchased by Armstrong and he will at once start construction of a fine dwelling, and will make his home there.

Second Extortion Plot Failure When Police Notified

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A second extortion plot against Isaac and Michael Katz, brothers, who were victims of a $100,000 scheme last spring, had failed today. The brothers received a letter directing them to toss a bundle containing $35,000 from a car at a designated spot. Death was threatened as the alternative, and in the event police were notified.

The letter was turned over to detectives and a trap set for the plotters. Officers with rifles and machine guns surrounded the spot and a bundle was thrown from the Katz car as the letter had specified. No one appeared, however.

to Hollywood, where she lived quietly until she was arrested in San Diego early this month on a charge of possessing narcotics. Physicians bore out her statements that she was not taking drugs. She claimed she was a victim of a "frameup," but was held to the federal grand jury.

Miss Rubens gained her first stage experience in San Francisco in 1917 when she substituted for a chorus girl. With the same company was Franklin Farnum. When the troupe reached Los Angeles, Farnum was given a motion picture role, and persuaded Miss Rubens to accompany him into the new profession. The couple had been married, but this was not learned until Miss Rubens secured a divorce from Farnum in 1918.

She was given a supporting role with Douglas Fairbanks in "The Half Breed," and made an immediate success. She followed this with an appearance in "Humoresque." For the next eight years she was featured in several score pictures, retiring temporarily from the screen in 1926.

Her last appearances on the screen were in "Show Boat" and "She Goes to War."

Miss Rubens was born in San Francisco and educated in the Sacred Heart convent.

N. Y. COMMUNISTS HOLD CELEBRATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—(UP)—An enthusiastic crowd of several thousand Communists paid homage to Nikolai Lenin on the seventh anniversary of his death by threatening to sack the food stores of New York, urging a Soviet world revolution and deriding principles of American democracy.

The celebration, held at Madison Square Garden last night under heavy police guard, concluded with a pageant depicting the rise of American bolshevism, and the defeat of Americanism by the Soviet. Men, women and children proclaimed Lenin as their leader, but were careful not to draw police intervention.

BY CALVIN COOLIDGE
Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Jan. 22.—The situation between France and Italy again illustrates how extremely difficult it is for nations to get away from the age-old policy of trying to rely mostly on force for security. Those nations were unable to agree on naval armaments at the London conference. They did arrange a truce in naval building which is reported now ending, with Italy proposing to build gun for gun with France.

About the only progress made is a tacit admission all around that such action is not a good solution of the problems involved. National pride is the main difficulty. Both countries declare their desire for peace but to each security means more arms in their own hands or the promise of more arms to be furnished by other people.

The Washington and London treaties show these differences can be adjusted. Therein lies the hope. The pressure of high taxes will work on the side of reason. With the protection of the league covenant, the Locarno agreement, and the world peace treaty, the European nations are in a position to make concessions in armaments. They know the attitude of our public opinion on peace and our disinclination to finance war.

that combination of gases had anything to do with the tragic death. He said that the anaesthetic used was the best that could be purchased.

Dr. Warmer and Dr. King joined in the opinion that the electro-therapy machine, used to keep a normal temperature over the patient's body during the surgery, was not responsible for the spark.

County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner ended his testimony with the query: "Who knows?"

He said Mrs. Branton died of ruptured lungs due to the explosion and that a slight burn on her chin was the only exterior evidence of the blast.

VETERAN PRINTER DIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Andrew A. McLean, for 72 years a member of the Typographical Union, a pioneer of the printing business in San Francisco, died yesterday. He was 89 years old.

McLean came to California in 1841, when he was a boy of 11. He was wounded twice fighting for the Union in the Civil war.

COMMITTEE TO REPORT FAVORABLY

out of power developed over a period of 50 years.

As the final solution of the San Joaquin valley's water problem involves taking the water from the Sacramento river and carrying it south, the commission recommended the system of booster dams at the mouth of the San Joaquin, costing $25,000,000.

Sen. Ralph E. Swing, of San Bernardino, was first to attack the Hoover-Young water commission's report, for leaving the Santa Ana flood control project out of its recommendations. Swing now has a bill before the legislature calling for appropriation by the state of $3,000,000 a year for 10 years to aid in financing this important project. Because the Santa Ana river works were among those recommended by the 1927 water committee, and the fact that Southern California support is needed if any state water program it put across, there appears little doubt that the project will eventually be adopted by the legislature.

TRUCK DRIVER'S FATE IN HANDS OF JURY TODAY

The fate of Ben Evans, bread salesman, charged with failure to stop and render aid after an accident, was in the hands of the jury today after arguments were closed in the court of Judge H. G. Ames and the court had given instructions to the members of the jury on the points of law involved.

Evans, it is alleged, struck a horse which was being ridden by Doris Jacobson on the evening of December 29. It is claimed that he did not stop until he had gone some distance down the road and then did not return to the scene of the accident. The defendant testified yesterday that he did not see anything at the time of the accident and that he thought he had run into a bank at the side of the road.

Pictures introduced during the course of the trial showed the condition of the truck with a light bent back, a dent in the hood of the car and a heavy mark on the cowl, but very little damage to the fender. Witnesses who testified yesterday included Miss Jacobson, who suffered a fractured shoulder; her riding companion, Katherine Mier; William Stephens, J. E. Lloyd, Dr. B. A. Brown, J. C. Rock, Highway Patrolmen Dan Adams and Ole Buer, O. K. Forgy, former deputy sheriff, and Evans. A motion for an instructed verdict of not guilty was denied yesterday afternoon by Judge Ames.

36 Filipinos In One House Given Orders To Vacate

Compliance with an order of the health department ordering vacation of premises occupied by a group of 36 young Filipino laborers at Costa Mesa, has resulted in departure of the group, according to word received from Costa Mesa. The action of the health department was based on sanitary requirements of the state housing act, it is said. The Filipinos had been brought in to work as cabbage planters, it is said.

FOUR GAS BLASTS DID IT

Four terrific gas explosions rocked the entire city of Monessen, Pa., near Pittsburgh, the other day, ripped a business block to bits and then started a fire which had the effect shown in this picture. Aside from the block that was destroyed, scores of houses were damaged, and 25 families were driven to the street. Damage is estimated at $225,000.

STRAY DOG IS WAITING WORD FROM MASTER

Some Santa Ana lad today was mourning the loss of his dog, a pretty buff creature whose long hair and slender muzzle indicates a preponderance of collie blood, and who was wandering at the noon hour, hopelessly lost and almost frantic with fright, at the intersection of Fourth street and Broadway.

An interested and sympathetic passerby watched the dog's frenzy of fear, and finally succeeded in enticing her to the Register office, where a call was placed for W. H Hamil, Orange county humane officer. Unfortunately Hamil is ill with influenza at his home, and was unable to call for the dog.

So "Buff," as she has been christened temporarily by the men at the Register office, remains homeless and forlorn. If her owner reads this story, he will know that she is being taken care of, and may telephone the Register news room, 29, or 4305-M for information as to where he can recover his pet.

Groups of young people from the churches of Anaheim and Long Beach each assisted in the music one evening.

MURDERER KILLED BY FRESNO POLICE

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Leo Soldo, ex-convict killer of Policeman Frank G. Campbell, was shot and killed here about five o'clock this morning, less than an hour short of a week after the murder of Campbell.

Soldo shot and probably fatally wounded Police Sergeant J. O. Brame, one of Campbell's best friends and the most persistent searcher for the killer.

Soldo was discovered when he returned to the scene of his crime in West Fresno. He was killed only a block distant after scores of police had gathered and poured a hail of lead into the back porch of the Negro home where he sought refuge.

Eighteen men recently moved an eight-story building weighing 22,000,000 pounds a distance of 50 feet in one direction in Indianapolis. Workers in the building were not interrupted while the moving was done.

FREIGHTER SINKS AFTER COLLISION

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 22.—(UP)—The Moore and McCormick Steamship company's 5500 ton freighter, Commercial Mariner, was rammed and sunk during a heavy fog shortly before daylight today by the Quaker line freighter San Simeon of 8000 tons.

The San Simeon stood by and saved the entire crew of the Commercial Mariner.

The San Simeon was inbound from Los Angeles, via New York, with a general cargo. Captain George Benner was master of the vessel.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF BURNING STEPSON, 9

REDDING, Cal., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Mrs. Elsie R. Chapman, 40, accused of beating her 9-year-old step-son, William, and placing him so close to a stove that his entire body was blistered, was taken from the county jail here to Burney this morning for a preliminary examination.

"I'm willing to take the punishment if the boys are only given back to their father," said the woman. Chapman continued his refusal to speak to his wife.

The arrest of Mrs. Chapman was made on a warrant sworn out by Mrs. Edna Saygrover, county probation officer.

FRIENDS SAY NOT OPPOSED TO REVISION

however, see serious objections to and therefore must not be understood as recommending the commission's proposed revision of the 18th amendment which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation.

Senator Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, in a published interview today which followed closely the lines of an editorial in at least one pro-administration newspaper this morning said:

"The president is only opposed to the form of revision recommended in the Wickersham report. He does not wish a revision that would throw the whole wet and dry question in congress to harry congressmen for perhaps another 100 years."

Other friends of the president insisted that Mr. Hoover still was open minded on the subject of prohibition and the revision of the 18th amendment.

No amplification as to the president's exact position, however, was forthcoming at the White House this morning when newspapermen sought an expression.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

You feel so terribly weak and inept: that is the finite part of you.

Give due recognition to the fact that you also partake of the divine nature, and so have a share in infinity. You were created for eternity; not for a few brief years on this earth.

While you rightly value and enjoy much that belongs to this period of your existence, realize that it is only a foretaste of the wonders which you are to know beyond.

The things of earth will pass away, but love endures because personality is immortal and your triumphant soul will be reunited with dear ones gone before.

NICHOLS—Wallace Nichols, Costa Mesa, passed away at the Orange County hospital the night of January 20. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Florence Williams, of Aberdeen, Wash. Funeral will be announced later by Grooms and Riesenberg, funeral directors of Costa Mesa.

FLETCHER—In Santa Ana, Jan. 21, 1931, Claude M. Fletcher, aged 58 years. Father of T. K. Fletcher of Capistrano Beach. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p. m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel.

Harry Lewis To Talk On Travel

Harry W. Lewis will be the speaker at the regular Thursday evening travel talk at the Y. M. C. A. today at 7:30 p. m. He will speak on "Chile, California's South American Counterpart." His discussion of agricultural and business conditions in that part of the world will be of especial interest in connection with the present industrial situation. Pictures will be used to add to the interest of the talk.

An emergency list of 15 members of the Orange post of the American Legion, was forwarded to Sheriff Logan Jackson today with instructions to the effect that these men would be ready at all times for any emergency that might arise and that the sheriff could depend on them for immediate support when they were needed.

The men on the list make up the Orange emergency committe of the post there. Deputy sheriff cards were made out for them in the sheriff's office today and in case of serious trouble or an emergency of any kind, they can quickly be sworn in as officers and used in any manner that Jackson sees fit.

"I think it is a good plan. We never know what might happen and it's with a feeling of relief that I know where I can get good men in a moment's notice," Sheriff Jackson said.

The "minute men" of the Orange post are: Albert Benson, Rex Parker, W. M. Tipple, Lyman Wetherbee, G. W. Watson, C. D. Bay, H. O. Wallace, W. Davis, G. Franzen, A. A. Schmidt, D. Clough, E. P. Rose, Art Streech, G. M. Bickford and George Wilbur.

Burglars took the trouble to cut away part of the side of the building in order to gain entrance to the E. P. Francis garage at Atwood, sometime last night, procured only $1.80 for their work, it was reported to the sheriff's office today.

The building, constructed of heavy tin, was cut at one side, large enough to admit a man. The money was taken from the cash drawer of the garage's register. Nothing else was disturbed.

Alleged Burglar Held To Answer

Kenneth Cairns, Santa Ana man, charged with attempted burglary, was held to answer to the superior court from Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today, at the conclusion of his preliminary examination.

FILES SUIT OVER LIFE INSURANCE

A suit to compel payment of life insurance was filed in superior court yesterday by Laura Sanborn, widow of J. D. Sanborn, plumbing contractor, who died last October, directed against the Imperial Mutual Life and Benefit association.

The suit asks judgment of $2000 as the amount claimed to be due under provisions of a $3000 contract, under which the plaintiff claims the deceased was covered. The complaint asserts that Sanborn took a $3000 certificate through Frank Musselman on Jan. 23, 1930, paying semi-annual dues of $5 and agreeing to pay all future dues. It also asserts that proof of death was furnished to the concern at Los Angeles on Nov. 4, 1930, but no money ever has been received.

DOG LOSES HIS LIFE RAIDING CHICKEN PENS

That chicken thieves are using a new and less dangerous method in stealing from the coops of Orange county poultry fanciers was disclosed in a report made to the sheriff's office today by T. F. Howell, of West Fifth street and the Buaro road, who shot and killed a huge police dog, sent into the pens to rob.

Howell reported he heard noises in his pens last night and went to investigate. He heard two men running away from the place, he said, and another noise in the pen. He fired and killed a big police dog.

Deputy sheriffs today were making an effort to identify the dog, hoping in that way to arrest the owners as chicken thieves.

DAMAGE SUITS ASK $16,427 IN COURT HERE

Two damage suits were filed in superior court here yesterday afternoon, both growing out of automobile accidents, in which judgments totaling $16,427.50 are asked by the plaintiffs, who assert they suffered injuries as a result of fault on the part of the defendants.

Grace Green asks $10,000 of Irene and Ralph Lee as a result of injuries which she asserts in her complaint she received in a crash between an auto in which she was riding and one driven by Ralph Lee, which occurred near Dana Point on October 10, 1930. She itemizes injuries to her face and head, including concussion of the brain.

R. E. and Florence Cross are plaintiffs in the other damage case, which is directed against L. F. Shell. This accident happened at the intersection of the Coast highway and Newport boulevard on September 21, 1930. This suit asks judgment for $6427.50, including $6000 personal damages to Florence Gross, medical and hospital attention, loss of wages, and damages to their auto. It is stated in the complaint that Mrs. Cross received cuts about the eyes and face that will leave her permanently disfigured.

Crash Basis Of Second Lawsuit

Another suit as a result of an automobile collision at the intersection of Bishop and Sycamore streets on September 27, 1930, was filed today in superior court against J. L. and Mary Detrixhe and others. L. A. Aubuchon, packinghouse foreman, is plaintiff in this action, in which damages of $5368.75 are sought.

Aubuchon asserts in the complaint that his hand was crushed in the accident, resulting in the joints stiffening and the muscles atrophying. He asks $5000 personal damages, $44 for medical attention and $324.75 for damages to and loss of use of his auto while it was being repaired.

The bill of Congressman Phil Swing to prevent rocks off the coast of Laguna Beach and Orange county becoming private property was passed by the house yesterday and now goes to the senate, according to messages received in Orange county today. No opposition is expected in the senate.

IMPROVEMENTS AUTHORIZED BY BEACH COUNCIL

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 22.—First definite order to proceed with the plans and specifications for improving 17 or more streets on the cliffs was given by the city council Wednesday evening to City Engineer Frank Gowan. It came after considerable discussion as to inclusion of alleys and to surface to be used and as discussed is to include the negotiation with the former city engineer, Arthur J. Stead, for plans and specifications covering the work.

The discussion of type of improvement for the streets led to positive statements by property owners of a desire to have the work proceed at an early date. Mayor J. E. Bishop thought that alleys should be made a matter of separate petition. Arguments were advanced by Fred Warman, G. E. Thompson, Tom Foley, and other citizens favoring inclusion of alleys, with the surface to be of the same specifications as the streets.

Two inches of gravel with oil was agreed as the proper surface, the alleys to be the same. Whether Cliff drive should be included for the full length of that sinuous street was not finally decided, but there was an expression of sentiment indicating that from Holly street eastward it should be included, but from there to the boulevard it should be omitted. That latter portion is but little used, and in places has never been opened, though dedicated as a street. Progress on the streets on the cliffs was halted by the present council after the matter had gone to bids several months ago. The mayor asserted that old proceedings would be abandoned and a new start made.

Attorney R. C. Mize was present with E. Walter Pyne asking for an adjustment of claims against the city by Mr. Pyne by reason of failure to make compensation for use of a point of land condemned at Third street and Broadway when the latter was improved. An oversight on the part of the attorney at that time handling legal proceedings for improvements is said to have been the cause. An offer to adjust was made by the council, but Mr. Mize thought the city should purchase the bond for $1389, Mr. Pyne to allow the interest. The procedure would then be for the city to foreclose the lot. The matter was laid over to allow time for study of the various interest, there being three bond issues against the property.

On request of Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston the city agrees to set aside a part of the park on the Cliffs for planting by the Woman's club, plants to be furnished by Susanna Bixby Bryant.

Mayor Bishop raised the right of the council to vote itself a salary, citing an article in a municipal magazine of a court decision. No action was taken.

NEW BUILDING SCHEDULED FOR MISSION CITY

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 22.—An improvement program has started in this community. Ferris F. Kelly will erect a business building at the corner of Broadway and State highway, opposite the mission. The building will include three store rooms and will be modern in every respect. It will be constructed of adobe brick, manufactured here and will be in early mission style of architecture. The frame building, formerly occupied by the Mission cafe, and the small shop which housed the Traveler's studio are being moved to other locations to make room for the new business block.

A wrecking crew is at work removing the front of the garage owned by John Forster. The building will be set back on the sidewalk line and a new front constructed, which will conform to the other business buildings in the same block, owned by Forster. Instead of being rebuilt in mission style, the new front will be Spanish in design. The garage has been leased to Al Jimenez, constable of San Juan Capistrano.

Norman Bottger, owner of the building occupied by his Mission cafe, is having the building moved to a location on Main street, next to the old Aguilar home, and will remodel it for a residence.

The building owned by William Reed and occupied by the Traveler's studio will be moved to a lot in Mission Flats and remodeled into an attractive residence.

The large room, in the Old Adobe studio, used by Mrs. Frances Ames as a gallery has been leased by Mrs. Dorothy Jackson, of Carlsbad, who will open an art and curio shop there in the near future. The room will be remodeled by the new tenant.

Mission City And Dana Point Ready To Join District

CAPISTRANO BEACH, Jan. 22.—With the publication this week of the notice of improvement, the Capistrano Beach Sanitary district takes an important step in the development of this section of Orange county.

At the official board meeting of the district it was voted to make plans to include in the sanitary district all the different developments in this locality, including Dana Point and San Juan Capistrano. Dana Point residents have already published a petition to be included in the Caistrano Beach district and it is expected that property owners of the mission town will do likewise, following the announcement that the present sanitary system of San Juan Capistrano is inadequate and unsanitary, which was made recently by G. C. Gillespie, chief of the bureau of sanitary engineers.

San Juan Capistrano will be relieved of participating in the financing of the sanitary system at Capistrano Beach, in the event that community desires to enter the Capistrano Beach district, providing the town will run its sewer main to the affluent plant, and pay an annual charge of $500 which will include all expenses of handling sewage and treatment at the affluent plant.

PREVIEW EL BRENDEL FILM AT BROADWAY

"Mr. Lemon of Orange," newest Fox production starring El Brendel, was previewed at the Fox Broadway theater last night by a packed house there to see "Min and Bill" the current attraction.

The film places Brendel in a new field of activity. All the hokum he ever used is employed, but there are flashes of a new Brendel who can really act and there are times in the film when you wonder if Brendel wouldn't make a good screen heavy, for the Swede comedian plays two roles, that of a gang leader and his usual role of the dumb Swede comedian.

The show is not as good as a whole as "Just Imagine," probably because the plot is more commonplace, but there are more laughs in it, and the gags are more original. All in all, it is a good comedy throughout and the preview leaves little doubt but what the film will "click" when it is released. The Broadway audience liked it.

Fifi D'Orsay plays the girl in the show but her performance is not as convincing as would be expected. William Collier sr., puts the film over in several spots where it might have dragged. There is still some cutting to be done, probably in the cafe dressing room scenes in which Brendel talks too much about Sweden.

Mrs. E. L. Bennett, president, presided during the business session. The society endorsed the plan for the United States entering the world court.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ruth McKenzie, Fairview avenue at Wilson street.

JUNIOR ARTIST PERFORMS FOR MORNING CLUB

Discussion of club affairs and anecdotes concerning members of the club occupied the attention of those in attendance at the regular session of the Santa Ana Breakfast club at Ketner's cafe this morning after the presentation of an entertainment program.

The feature entertainer today was Junior Kavanaugh, diminutive soloist and tap dancer, who sang two numbers and performed some intricate and difficult steps that brought a hearty response from the Breakfasters. His mother, Mrs. Cash Kavanaugh, also was a guest of the club. The youthful artist was accompanied at the piano by Lorene Croddy for his two numbers, which were "Gee, But I'd Like to Make You Happy" and "All By Yourself in the Moonlight."

Dr. K. A. Loerch, chairman of the golf committee, announced that the club golfers would hold their first competitive play today at the Country club. The delegation is to compete for membership on a team to represent the club in contests with other organizations.

The club accepted an invitation from Claude McDowell, manager of the Kilpatrick bakery, to be his guests at a breakfast in the bakery on North Main street in the near future. Details of the affair are to be arranged by a committee headed by Edward Cochems and Gene Kahen. The entertainment committee today was composed of Clifford Greenleaf and Jack Cope.

MRS. CLEELAND IS GRANTED DIVORCE

A contested divorce action, trial of which was started in the court of Judge G. K. Scovel, was concluded yesterday when the court awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Fonta B. Cleeland from James L. Cleeland. Mrs. Cleeland was defendant in a suit brought by her husband on a charge of desertion and won the decree on a cross complaint charging cruel and inhuman treatment.

The court order awarded a house and furnishings in Santa Ana, alimony of $50 per month and a lien of $2500 on a farm in Iowa to Mrs. Cleeland, and ordered that back alimony, amounting to $97.50, and attorney fees, must be paid. The Cleelands were married in Iowa in 1904 and separated Jan. 30, 1929. Mrs. Cleeland informed the court that her husband flew into rages, refused to pay her doctor bills and forced her from their home, and that he further had asserted, referring to her, "Only fools live in California."

Discuss Problem Of Scale Control

In an efofrt to discover some means of checking the red scale that is causing California citrus growers so much trouble, Dr. Cole, in charge of the Federal Government laboratory at Whittier, was here yesterday conferring with the Orange County agricultural department, according to A. A. Brock, agricultural commissioner.

Trees infected with red scale have been both sprayed and fumigated but even a combination of these two methods in many cases fails to get results and the costs are quite prohibitive, Brock said.

MOTHERHOOD

San Bernardino, Calif.—"I am glad indeed to recommend to every expectant mother the tonic and nervine that I found to be so helpful in my own young motherhood. I was in very frail, delicate health and my back bothered me a great deal. I had heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and I decided to take it. The New 'World's Busiest Airport'

Tulsa, Oklahoma, has stepped into the lead, 40 planes carrying over 300 passengers clearing the field for 20,000 miles of flight from sunrise to sunset every day

By ERNEST T. PYLE

"FROM wheatfield to the world's busiest air terminal in just 18 months."

That is the proud boast that Tulsa, Oklahoma, makes for its municipal airport. And Tulsa can prove its contention.

It was on July 3, 1928, that a 480-acre tract of prairie land lying six miles northeast of Tulsa formally ceased to be a wheat field and became a landing place for airplanes.

A year and a half later (January, 1930) that one-time wheat field was the hub for a score of airlines running out like spokes in a wheel, and more passengers were being cleared per month from that field than any other air terminal in the world.

So proud was Tulsa of its record that at the end of every month it sent telegrams to all the large airports in the United States, and cablegrams to the three leading ones of Europe, asking for figures on their monthly traffic.

And month after month back came the answers, showing Tulsa far in the lead. One month its airport cleared more passengers than Croyden, Le Bourget and Tempelhof (the great airports of London, Paris and Berlin) all put together.

Today more than 10,000 persons are riding in and out of Tulsa every month over the regular airlines; 40 scheduled planes, most of them tri-motors, clear the field every day and fly away for a total of 20,000 miles between every sunrise and sunset; 100 airplanes rest in the hangars every night; six companies, operating a score of lines, use the field as a terminal.

TULSA is banking on its excellent flying weather, its rather inadequate rail facilities, and the confidence of the people of the southwest in air transportation, to keep it well up among the leaders. For it is no myth that down in Oklahoma people do ride the airlines—not for fun or the novelty of the thing, but because in Oklahoma it is the quickest and safest (and very nearly the cheapest) way to get anywhere.

In the first two years of the airport's operation, more than 5,000,000 miles were flown in and out of Tulsa by scheduled airliners; a total of 151,326 passengers was cleared, and yet not one person was so much as scratched by an airplane.

The pilots' hotel is a decided convenience to visiting pilots. This two-story building on the west edge of the field has 19 rooms, and is filled nearly every night with flying men.

The story of Tulsa's Airport is a real "success" story. Its growth has been not only amazingly rapid, but steady and well-founded. Tulsa's air business is a year-round business. Sometimes other cities pass it in summer month spurts, but Tulsa keeps on flying, month in and month out. Not only is its weather almost perfect for flying, but it lies geographically in an unusually advantageous position. It is a half-way point between the east and west coasts, and also between Canada and Mexico. It lies directly on the natural route of air traffic, from Texas into St. Louis, and from Los Angeles and El Paso into St. Louis.

Patrick Hurley . . . now secretary of war . . . one of the original promoters of the Tulsa airport.

C. W. Short, Jr. . . . had flown with Rickenbacker . . . and his experience made him just the port manager for the Tulsa project.

A little more than two years ago a group of wealthy Tulsa citizens, sensing these native advantages, got together and put up the money for an airport. They were W. G. Skelly, oil man; Harry H. Rogers and Waite Phillips, Tulsa bankers; Harry C. Tyrell, Robert F. Garland, Cyrus S. Avery, Omer K. Benedict and, last but not least, Pat Hurley, now secretary of war.

Skelly had in his employ a man who had been with Rickenbacker's famous 95th during the World War. He hadn't flown since the war, but he knew his aeronautics, and Skelly wanted this man in charge of the airport. His name is Charles W. Short, Jr., and he has managed Tulsa's airport from the day of its dedication to the present. The airport's present position is sufficient evidence of Short's ability.

EVEN though the field is called Tulsa Municipal Airport, the city has not yet taken it over. But the city is on the way toward this now, and $650,000 in bonds have been voted—$453,000 to go to the purchase of the field as it now stands, and the remainder for a new administration building and other improvements.

The field itself lies on a plain six miles northeast of Tulsa. It is composed of 420 acres, and 180 more acres are under lease. Along the south side of the field are the large, modern hangars and offices of Southwest Air Fast Express and the Spartan School of Aeronautics, and the dinky administration building. Along the west side is the municipal hangar, the pilots' hotel, the hangar and offices of Southern Air Transport and National Air Transport.

A wide concrete apron runs the entire length of the south and west sides of the airport. North and south, across the center of the field, is a slight ridge, giving perfect drainage. They say Tulsa airport has never been muddy.

Tulsa's airport lacks a great deal of being the most modern or impressive in the country. It needs new runways, a new administration building and passenger station, and another hangar. Compared to many of the country's fine air depots, it hasn't gotten very far away from the wheat field stage. But just stand on the sidelines and watch the traffic move!

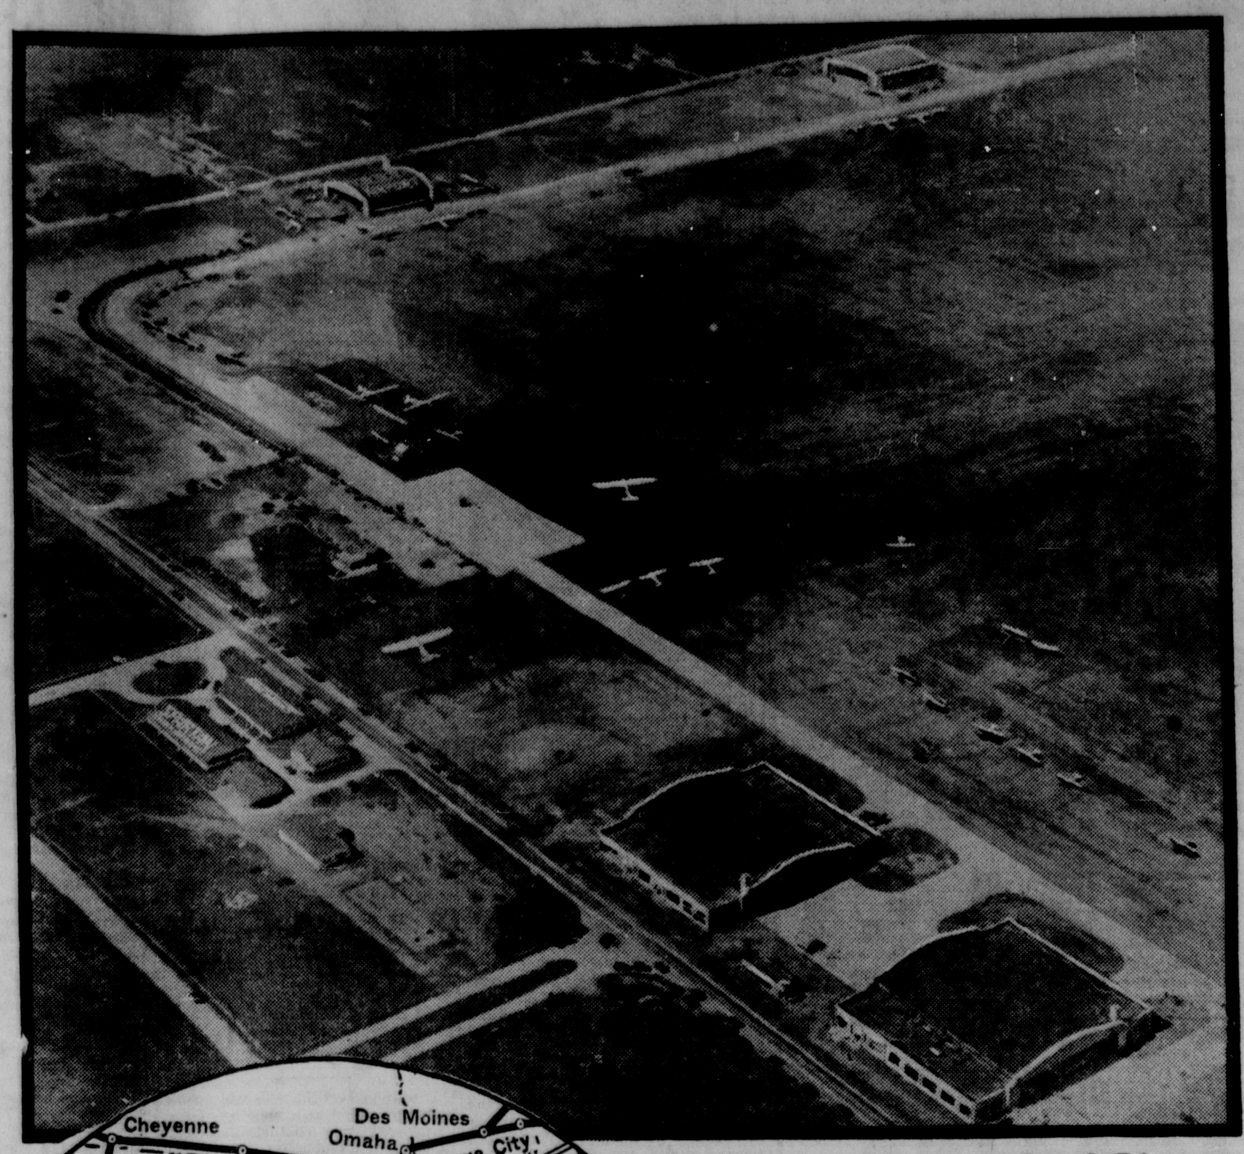

This writer spent 24 hours on the field, set down every scheduled plane movement, and made sort of a diary of "one day at the world's busiest air terminal."

You have to get up early to see the day's first plane into Tulsa, for it comes shortly after daylight, at 5:20 a. m. It is a silver and blue Curtiss Falcon, flown by E. J. Martin of National Air Transport, bringing the mail in from Ponca City. Martin stays over in Tulsa during the day, and takes the mail out for Ponca City again at 9:20 p. m. His flights open and close every day's activity at Tulsa airport.

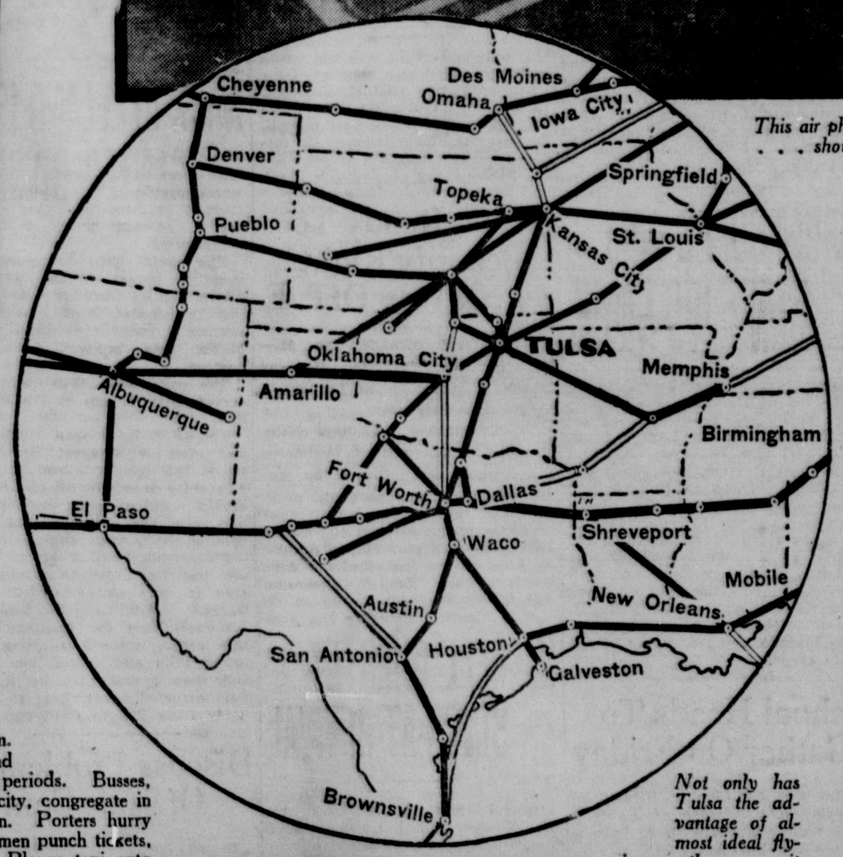

The second scheduled plane movement of the day is at 8 a. m., when a tri-motored Ford of Southwest Air Fast Express leaves for Oklahoma City and Dallas.

Half an hour later, at 8:30, a tri-motored Fokker of Western Air Express hops off and heads west on the long journey to Los Angeles, where it arrives before night.

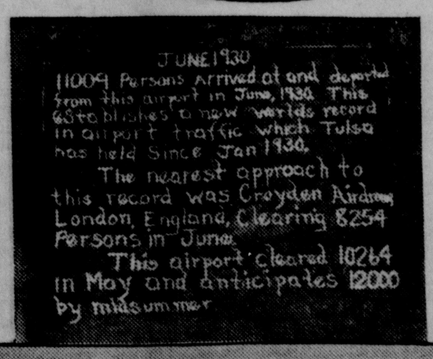

Following this there is a lull for an hour and a half.

This air photo . . . taken on an average day at the Tulsa airport . . . shows 40 planes lined up . . . at various points along the landing area of the port.

Not only has Tulsa the advantage of almost ideal flying weather . . . it has a strategic position as a stop between north-south and east-west flying . . . which is well indicated by this map.

FIVE minutes later, another Ford hops off for Coffeyville and Kansas City.

That ends the 10 o'clock rush and there is an hour's breathing spell. At 11:30 the plane of Oklahoma Short Lines is due from Memphis and Little Rock.

At 12:05 the noon rush starts. There are 10 arrivals and departures in less than an hour.

At 11:30 Manager Short had instructed some of his men to light up the smudge-pot. This is a little outdoor furnace in one corner of the field, which throws off a dense white smoke to indicate the wind direction to incoming pilots. They can see it for miles, long before they can see the wind-sock.

At noon the siren shrieks. The man in the lookout has spotted the SAFE-Way Ford, a tiny dark spot above the horizon, inbound from Kansas City. It is on the ground at 12:05. A lone mail plane, silver and blue, roars over the field, banks into the wind, and lands on the far west side of the airport. It is the northbound N. A. T. ship, flying from Dallas to Kansas City. Manager Short separates the mail and passenger planes so that they do not interfere with each other.

At 12:20 another SAFE-Way Ford, just in from Dallas, touches its wheels to the runway. It hasn't stopped rolling before the N. A. T. mail pilot, who landed a few minutes ago, guns his Falcon and is away to Kansas City.

Five minutes later another SAFE-Way Ford comes in from St. Louis loaded with passengers. It is 12:25. At 12:30 another one lands from the other direction, ending its flight from Sweetwater, Abilene, Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City.

PASSENGERS hurry from one plane to another. Most are white-collared business men. Probably one-fourth are women. Now and then a tanned man with a flannel shirt and ten-gallon hat, from the cow-country or the oil fields.

The SAFE-Way exodus starts again. At 12:45 a plane is off for St. Louis. At 12:50 two go out at once, one for Oklahoma City and Sweetwater, the other for Dallas. At 1 p. m. the plane for Kansas City leaves the earth. That ends the noon rush.

At 2:20 p. m. another blue and silver mail plane roars in from Kansas City to Dallas. At 2:30 it is off.

At 3 the Oklahoma Short Lines ship leaves for Little Rock and Memphis. At 3:50 a SAFE-Way Ford filled with passengers comes in from St. Louis. Five minutes later another one arrives from Kansas City.

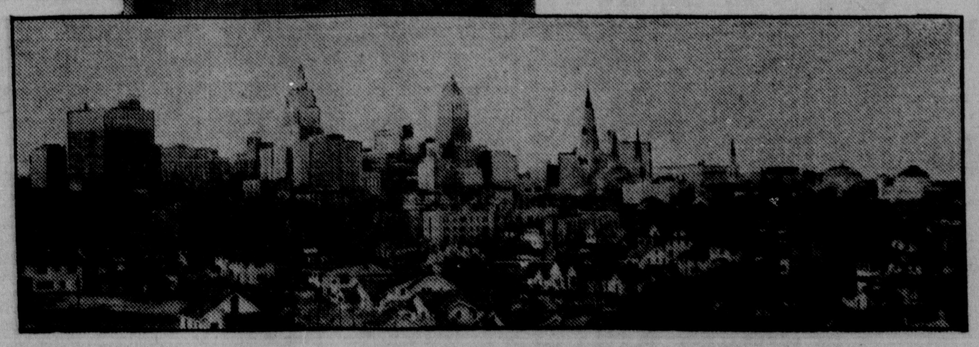

At 4 another SAFE-Way plane hops off for Dallas. At 4:30 the all-metal Flamingo monoplane of U. S. Airways comes in from Wichita, and 15 minutes later it leaves for Salina and Kansas City. At 5 another SAFE-Way ship leaves for an hour's run to Oklahoma City.

The 5 o'clock rush is on. It is hard to keep track of the planes. At 5:05 a tri-motored Fokker of S. A. T. lands from Kansas City, bringing passengers who left Cleveland that morning. Another Fokker rolls in from Oklahoma City.

At 5:15 S. A. T. sends out another Fokker for Dallas. Also at 5:15 an S. A. T. Fokker leaves for Oklahoma City, the legendary commuter's 5:15.

At 6 o'clock SAFE-Way brings in two more Fords, from Sweetwater and Dallas. At 7:10 the tri-motored Western Air Express arrives.

Lights come on in the hangars. The field is dark and shadowy. Two hours later a lone plane taxies out onto the field. Reddish-green sparks fly from the exhaust. The plane gathers speed, lifts, flies, and its lights disappear into darkness. It is E. J. Martin, off for Ponca City, with the mail, winding up the day at the world's busiest air terminal.

Quite a lot like lower New York, isn't it? . . . But this is the skyline of Tulsa . . . blossoming still faster because of the increasing air traffic of the city.

THEN comes the 10 a. m. rush. At 10, at 12 and at 4 are the big rush periods. Busses, bringing passengers from the city, congregate in front of the passenger station. Porters hurry around with luggage. Desk men punch tickets, check and weigh baggage. Planes taxi onto the loading line, others come up to unload. Each line has its own gate, through which passengers must enter and leave the field. A few minutes before the departure of every plane, a loud voiced "plane caller," over a loud-speaker system, calls out the leaving time and the destinations of the departing airliner.

At 10 a. m. a tri-motored Fokker of Southern Air Transport (hereafter called S. A. T.) comes in from Fort Worth. Due at the same time, and they often touch the earth together, is a single-motored Travel Air of the same company from Oklahoma City.

Also at 10 comes a SAFE-Way Ford from Fort Worth and Dallas. Five minutes later comes a single-motored Flamingo of the U. S. Airways in from Wichita. In five more minutes, at 10:10, another SAFE-Way Ford drops in from Oklahoma City, usually with every seat filled.

That puts five arriving planes on the unloading line at the same time, and even before they have landed four other planes have been taxied out from their hangars and stand waiting, their motors turning over, ready to take the incoming passengers and speed them away in every direction.

COUNT carefully, and if all planes are on time (and they usually are in Oklahoma) you see nine planes lined up along the concrete apron in front of the passenger station at 10:10 a. m.

Uniformed attendants wheel out carts for the baggage. Others escort through-passengers to their waiting planes. As each incoming plane approaches the field, a loud siren sounds a warning to other planes to stay on the ground until the airliner is safely down.

At 10:15 the exodus starts. Two S. A. T. planes, both tri-motored Fokkers, take off simultaneously for Kansas City and St. Louis. The Kansas City plane connects there with another, which puts its passengers into Chicago and on to Cleveland before dark.

At 10:20 a SAFE-Way Ford takes the air for the three and a half hour run to St. Louis. It is 12 hours by the fastest train. This ship is usually loaded.

Also at 10:20 the U. S. Airways plane leaves for Salina and Kansas City, with connections over the same line to Denver.

ALASKA LIFE DESCRIBED FOR CLUB MEMBERS

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 22.—Incorrect impressions of life in Alaska and particularly of wild animals of that country are given in most stories and books, according to C. F. Kroehle, a resident of the north country in its heyday for 21 years, now an insurance man here. He spoke at a combined meeting of Newport Beach Exchangites and Huntington Beach Rotarians at the Yacht club here yesterday.

Most wild animals will never touch or attack a man if he will "mind his own business" and does not exhibit fear, according to Kroehle. Never in his whole period of residence in Alaska, he said, did he have occasion to carry a gun for purposes of protection against wild animals, and never did he hear of any man being attacked by one, except when the man attacked the animal first or ran away from it.

Another idea the speaker dispelled regarding wolves was that a wolf does not "spring at the throat" of another animal, such as a moose. Most of his talk, as he stated, tended to take the romance out of wild animal stories, but were facts nevertheless, he declared.

A herd of caribou numbering a million or more was, and perhaps in some parts of the north country still is, frequently seen, Kroehle said.

Eighty Exchangites and Rotarians attended the meeting. Entertainment was provided by teachers and students of the Huntington Beach high school. Among the guests were C. G. Bathe and N. J. Remackel, of Tulsa, who plan to operate a string of de luxe fishing boats off the Southern California coast, and regard the Newport-Balboa coast favorably for one of them.

Instead of holding their usual Wednesday meeting next week, the Exchange club will attend the Huntington Beach Rotary club meeting there Friday.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves or cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist with a rigid money- back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and McCoy Drug Store invites every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if it does not end all Pile misery.—Adv.

Walnut Trees Taken Out At Capistrano

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Jan. 22.—Nearly half of the walnut trees in this vicinity have been cut out to make way for valencia orange groves. In 1918 there were 860 acres of walnut trees near San Juan Capistrano; today there are 475 acres.

Growers in the vicinity the past season shipped 190 tons of nuts, receiving in the neighborhood of $68,000 for their crop. Ten to twelve thousand dollars more will be received from nuts still in the local warehouse, making a gross average return of $250 per acre. Orange growers have received three times that amount per acre for the fruit.

NEW UNIT OF L. T. L. FORMED IN BEACH CITY

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 22.—Under the direction of the state secretary of Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss Mary Parker Johnson, of Eagle Rock, a local unit was formed at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Beatty at 307 Lido avenue in Balboa.

Dorethy Gabriel was appointed temporary chairman and conducted the election of the following officers: President, Maxine Sparks; vice president, Dorethy Gabriel; secretary, Ellwood Beatty; treasurer, Arthur Hooker. Several tried out for yell leader, Dickey Huddleston being chosen.

The newly elected president took charge of the meeting and after some L. T. L. songs and yells were practiced, the meeting adjourned to meet next time February 2, at the home of Dickey Huddleston.

The social hour following was spent in games, in the midst of which a huge birthday cake bearing 11 candles, each one representing a year of national prohibition, was brought in by the hostess.

The cake was then cut and served with a cup of hot chocolate.

The L. T. L. is open to all boys and girls of Newport Beach between the ages of 8 and 14 years. The older ones will be given leadership positions and trained for and with the object of soon becoming the young people's branch.

Pledge blanks will be given to all desiring them to study and sign if they so decide. Dorethy Gabriel is chairman of the lookout committee and has charge of this work. It is hoped all mothers of this comunity will co-operate and urge boys and girls to join. Besides the business and social part of the organization a study course is conducted and the harmful effects of alcohol are taught. Mothers are invited to attend meetings, giving needed help and encouragement.

A motion was made that the city pay for the maintenance of two of the signs.

John Sanks reported on tests made on the outfall sewer line by his department. H. J. Livingston was granted permission to install an 8000 gallon underground storage tank.

Harold McCabe, newly appointed city attorney, read a number of communications from corporations with lines through the town. G. B. Selig represented the Southern California Edison company and stated that the company was ready to purchase a franchise from the city. Bids for the sale are to close March 17 at 8 p. m. The returns to the city will be figured on two per cent of the gross earnings.

OBSERVE 50TH WEDDING EVENT IN HOME TOWN

WESTMINSTER, Jan. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morsching, residents of Westminster since 1922, are recalling pleasant features of a recent gathering in their old home in Waterville, Minn., where they went to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

One of the features of the evening was a mock wedding. The bride of 50 years ago wore a gold dress with crown and footwear to match, the dress having been made by Mrs. Ray Burke, of Westminster.

Dinner was served to more than 150 friends and relatives in the I. O. O. F. hall at Waterville. The evening was spent in dancing and visiting.

The bride's left golden slipper was stolen as a joke and an old fashioned charivari was also staged as part of the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. Morsching were presented with gifts from many relatives and friends. They are the parents of six children and have 11 grandchildren.

Mr. Morsching was born at Elysian Le Sueur, Minn., on January 27, 1858. Mrs. Morsching was born at Elysian on April 11, 1865.

ELKS OF ANAHEIM PRESENT PROGRAM

ANAHEIM, Jan. 22.—A program featuring the Elks' Glee club and vaudeville acts from Los Angeles was presented at the clubhouse last night.

The affair was staged for the benefit of the glee club and orchestra, which are under the direction of John David Beall.

After the program the attending members and their friends enjoyed dancing and cards. Tables were set for bridge and "500." A buffet dinner was served during the course of the evening.

47 'Sleepers' At Anaheim Station

ANAHEIM, Jan. 22—Forty-seven "sleepers," as the wanderers are called at the police station, were lodged and fed last night by the city. The bunks in the city jail hold only 12 so it was necessary for the majority of them to sleep on the floor.

Early this morning they were marched over to a restaurant, where they were given their breakfast and told to move on. This is done, according to Desk Sergeant Warton, to prevent the men from molesting citizens of the town. A big increase has been noted in the number of lodgers the city has taken care of in the past few months.

COMMISSION IS STUDYING FOGS IN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 22. —(INS)—Fog—the one hazard of aviation that has brought the most dread to the staunchest of aviators—is soon to be conquered in Southern California according to a report of a commission formed here to locate sites for future airports in Southern California.

Little is known of fog areas here now, the commission reported. Ten observation stations are to be put in operation in Southern California where weather charts will be kept showing the action of fog in the vicinity of the ten stations.

Areas where fog is found to cause a ceiling of 500 feet or lower, and where horizontal visibility is less than a mile, will be pronounced unfit as airport sites, the committee said. The origin and the area where fog is most prevalent will be determined also, the committee revealed.

The survey showed further that air traffic will crowd the skies during the next thirty years, necessitating the building of more airports in localities where fog is least prevalent, to insure a large margin of safety.

The program of the commission includes the building of a sky harbor in the metropolitan district of Los Angeles, recognized as one of the principal aviation points in the United States.

Campbell Arrives To Try For Speed Record

HOOKS and SLIDES

By William Braucher

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

A year or so ago, quite a few of the alumni of the University of Oklahoma were razzing the athletic authorities for not winning a few games now and then . . .They demanded that Professor Adrian Lindsey, head of the football department, be relieved of his command. Now, however, there is a different situation to face, the new governor of Oklahoma, William H. Murray, coming out flatly against overemphasis of football at the university . . . Governor Murray might be amazed if he could see the athletic payrolls at such Big Six schools as Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and the Kansas Aggies, says C. E. McBride, sports editor of the Kansas City Star . . .The Oklahoma payroll is $52,000 for instructors in sports . . . Athletic Director Benny Owen gets $4500, which is less than that of any other director in the Big Six . . . Coach Ad Lindsey's salary is $3100, which doesn't look like overemphasis any way you take it.

BEHALF OF DER SCHLAGER

The boys have upraised their voices in chorus since the signing of the articles for a mess between Max Schmeling, the current heavyweight champion by foul (outside New York), and Willie Stribling, the atavistic aviator-acrobat-assassin.

Judging by the tenor and basso of the remarks, Der Schlager is to be knocked flatter than the war knocked German marks by the Georgian. Strib will wind up and let one go from the floor and they will be picking up pieces of Liederkranz around the ring far into the night. Also we hear that the clumsy Teuton lout couldn't hit Strib with an armful of stepladders.

HOLD ON, THERE!

It is barely possible that the boys who are picking Strib to slay the German without getting his hair mussed are taking too much off the Sharkey-Schmeling affair in which Der Schlager looked very, very bad and not giving sufficient consideration to Max's other fights in this country in which he took a lacing for quite a few rounds and then started coming along to win.

In behalf of the German go back to his Risko fight. Maxie scored a knockdown in the first round, but he took a punching that round just the same. In the second Schmeling was hit low several times, but kept fight without complaint.

Schmeling was given an edge in the third round by reason of cleaner, harder hitting than Risko was putting up. Risko, however, took the lead in the fourth round in which the boys stood for a time toe-to-toe, trading swings to the chin.

Risko carried the fifth and sixth, also, forcing the German to break ground with body jolts. They slugged in the seventh, Risko driving Maxie to a corner and landing a right to the chin that caused Maxie's knees to bend.

Schmeling, stung into a daze, came right back and floored Risko with a terrific right to the chin. In the eighth Schmeling again crashed the right to Risko's chin and Johnny took a nine count. The end came in the ninth, with Risko's arms hanging limply at his side. Referee Donovan chased Max to his corner and guided Johnny back to his handlers.

IT HAS TO BE FIGURED

Risko never has been anybody's Joe Beckett, it should be remembered. He laced Jack Sharkey, George Godfrey, Paolino, Delaney, Schaaf, Berlenbach, Sekyra and others. Up to the Schmeling bout he never had been knocked out.

In calculating Max's possible showing against Stribling, the Risko fight should not be forgotten. It was a great battle, in the course of which Schmeling showed fortitude and punch.

DRIVER HOPES TO EXCEED 231 MILES AN HOUR

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Captain Malcolm Campbell, British "speed demon," the only man living who has traveled over 200 miles an hour in an automobile, arrives here today from England on the liner Homeric. He plans to make an attempt shortly—probably at Daytona Beach, Florida — to shatter the world's record of the late Sir Henry Seagrave of 231.362 miles an hour.

This will be Captain Campbell's second American assault on the world's land speed mark. Three years ago Campbell established a world's record of 206.956 miles an hour at Daytona Beach only to see it broken by the late Ray Keech, an American, and subsequently by his countryman Major Seagrave.

Captain Campbell's giant 1400-horsepower "Bluebird" car which he used at Daytona in 1928, arrives with its famous pilot, with 50 per cent more power in his supercharged engine than was available for his 207 miles an hour performance over the Florida sands three years ago, or his 225 miles an hour effort in South Africa in 1929, the British racing ace is confident of breaking Seagrave's record.

Whether Campbell will make his 1931 try at Daytona has not been definitely settled but it is expected to be shortly after the captain's arrival. It is now believed that the financial arrangements between the American Automobile association, sanctioning body, and the Daytona Beach Racing association, over which there has been some difficulty, will be ironed out promptly so that Captain Campbell can proceed to Daytona to meet the February 1 starting schedule of the speed trials.

The Beaches of Jacksonville, Florida, Galveston, Tex., and the great salt beds of Utah have been urged as mediums for Captain Campbell's American attempt at the record.

CASCARELLA TRADED FOR PITCHER HOUSE

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Joe Cascarella, right handed curve ball pitcher of the Portland baseball club, has been traded to Seattle for Pitcher Andy House, according to an announcement made by Thomas L. Turner, president of the Portland club. Cascarella won 5 and lost 5 last year, but worked in numerous games as a relief pitcher, while House won 7 and lost 18. Turner also announced the outright releases of Johnny Beck, pitcher, and Harry Calkins, rookie shortstop.

TULSA'S BASEBALL MAGNATE

This is Lucille Thomas, owner of the Tulsa Western league club. She has promised fans a new deal in baseball. They will get a new park, night games, uniformed usherettes and gentlemanly players who will say "I have it" rather than "I got it."

Woman's Hand Will Guide Western League Club In Pennant Race

BY CLAIRE BURCKY
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

The civic-spirited, baseball-minded citizenry of Tulsa, Okla., owe Mrs. Lucille R. Thomas an oil well for restoring that city to good standing in the Western Baseball league. If she gives them a pennant right off the bat, they might throw in another gusher to show their appreciation.

Tulsa, center of one of the world's wealthiest sections, was humiliated when its baseball franchise slipped over into Topeka, Kan. Several tried to bring it back but ran against political resistance within the city, Mrs. Thomas' calculating business head and winning personality surmounted this obstacle.

But Tulsans won't know the game Mrs. Thomas' employes are going to play. There will be an entire change of scenery and a new cast of characters.

First of all, Mrs. Thomas is supervising construction of a new baseball plant. The city confiscated the other site, which made necessary the original move to Topeka.

Second, the game will be night baseball. Mrs. Thomas made careful study of night games in the Western league last season. She was impressed by the way fans supported the evening entertainments. Her plans for lighting the new Tulsa plant are copied from the Topeka plant.

Third, the fans will be guided to their seats by attractive, neatly-uniformed usherettes. Whatever peanut and pop purchases they make during the contests will be done from winsome sales girls. Mrs. Thomas believes spectators, at least those of the male sex, will vote this combination theater-night club idea an excellent one.

Fourth, the Tulsa team will provide "family" entertainment. Her athletes will be instructed to fight "like everything" to win but with a minimum of jockeying, razzing and rowdyism.

Tulsa's baseball magnetess, the second in organized baseball and actually the first to buy her way in, is the wife of an oil operator and a business woman in her own right. She taught school in Wichita, Kan., and later operated a string of moving picture houses in Missouri and Kansas. After moving to Tulsa, Mrs. Thomas opened a chain of drug stores and directed their activities.

Mrs. Thomas has always favored baseball. She played the game in her girlhood. Later on, convention restricted her interests to those of a spectator. The Wichita franchise took her eye last summer but Owner Art Griggs' price halted the negotiations. Then Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns and holder of the Topeka club as a farm for his young players, indicated a willingness to sell. She bought the franchise and 21 Topeka players and extracted a promise from Ball to send her on option several embryo big leaguers.

From Wichita Mrs. Thomas selected her manager. He is Howard Lindimore, veteran minor league infielder who once belonged to Detroit but never played a major league game.

Lindimore's job is cut out for him. Mrs. Thomas has ordered a winner. In addition, she has demanded that Tulsa players show a gentlemanly spirit and say "I have it," instead of "I got it."

'GOLDIE' HESS IN TITLE BOUT WITH KID BERG

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—With two world champions in midget divisions and a championship fight as a change from programs featuring "clown" heavyweights, Friday night's boxing show at Chicago stadium promises to attract the largest gate of the season.

A steady diet of heavyweight contests featuring Primo Carnera and King Levinsky gave Chicago fans their fill of comedy during recent months and Matchmaker Nate Lewis made a popular move in booking a card featuring high class men from the lighter divisions.

Jack (Kid) Berg of England, world junior welterweight champion, and Featherweight Champion Christopher (Bat) Battalino head the card. Berg will risk his title in a 10-round match with "Goldie" Hess, heavy-hitting Californian, while Battalino will engage in a 10-round nontitle mix with Eddie Shea of Chicago, ranking contender for the 126-pound title.

PEOPLE'S CHOICE

One of the most popular Indiana University basketball players among the fans this season is "Pee-dad" Campbell of Shelbyville, smallest of the Hoosier varsity. Campbell is only 5 feet 7 inches tall but performs well at guard. This is his second year on the squad.

SAINT MIDGETS BEAT WILLARD CAGERS, 21-19

BY JACK PEGUES

In a belated last quarter rally, the Frances Willard junior high school varsity basketball team came within a hair of tieing Coach Clyde Cook's league-leading Santa Ana high school Class C cagers when "Hank" Hendrie, Indian forward, ran wild to score six points and end the game with a 19-21 score yesterday.

Coach Cook's first string men grabbed the lead in the opening stanza and held it throughout. They were never in danger except in the last period when he replaced all but one of his regulars with reserves. It was then that the Saints were given their scare—and it came close to being more than a scare for just one second after the final whistle sounded Hendrie again came through with a goal which, fortunately for the Cookmen, did not count.

The Cook regulars played a steady game of ball, working the ball down the floor nicely. However, they failed to sink their foul shots with the monotonous regularity that characterized the Willard set-ups, the Indians making the majority of their points during the first half on foul shots.

Dick Denio, although not a starter, took high point honors for the Redshirts with six points, Jack Appleby, stellar forward, took second honors with five. Incidentally, Denio, the star of last years "Cee" hoop squad, will be eligible for Coast Preparatory league games next semester. Denio is expected to strengthen the Saint five considerably as he is adept either at forward or running guard.

Daley and Clem played their usual steady game at the guard posts, making it difficult for the Indians to score.

This set-to was a "warmer" for the Saints in preparation for their third Coast league tussle with Pasadena here Friday.

The lineups:

Santa Ana (21)		(19) Willard
Appleby (5)	F	Hales
Wimbush (4)	F	(3) Mossberg
Acker (4)	G	(8) Hendrie
Daley (2)	G	(3) Smith
Clem	G	(1) Elliott

Substitutes: Santa Ana—Denio (6) for Appleby, Hottel for Acker, Harnois for Daley, Clark for Clem, Appleby for Wimbush.

Willard—Hendrie for Hales, Ohleda for Hendrie.

SAINT 'DEES' WIN FROM INTERMEDIATE FIVE

The Saint Class D quintet eked out a 10-8 victory over the Frances Willard Intermediate casaba squad in a hard fought battle yesterday. Trailing by two or more points most of the time, the Indian five only threatened once in the second stanza when they came within a point of squaring the count.

The line-ups:

Santa Ana (10)		(6) Willard
Noe (2)	F	Redcone
Flocton	F	(2) Gibbs
Koral	C	(4) Gonzales
Brown (2)	G	Brock
Maynard (1)	G	Lentz

Substitutes: Santa Ana—Spaun for Noe, Kring for Flocton, Tannenbaum for Koral, Harnois for Brown, Clark for Maynard, Hottel for Kring. Willard—Ostrander for Gonzales, Davis for Brock, DeSmet for Lentz.

DONS PREPARE FOR PASADENA BASKET BATTLE

BY "SKY" DUNLAP

With two conference games in the red by virtue of dropping a pair of last minute four-point games, Santa Ana junior college's basketball team is holding down the bottom of the conference percentage volumn but Pasadena, the undefeated leaders will have to put up a good brand of ball in Andrews gymnasium Saturday night to hand the Dons a third trouncing.

Coach Bill Foote and his valiant Dons have been on the tough end of the breaks for the past two week-ends, after coasting through a pre-season schedule undefeated. The Long Beach Vikings won out in the first round, 23-18, and Compton eked out a 25-21 victory last Saturday after breaking a tie score in the last minute of play.

The Fullerton Yellowjackets succumbed before Pasadena last week, 49-36. As Fullerton has a veteran, team this makes Pasadena a heavy favorite to beat the Dons. The Santa Anans should feel more at home in their first game on the home floor, however, and should give the Pirates a close game.

Coach Foote's recently revamped lineup of Seacord and Dunham, forwards; Lindley, center, and Captain Schuchardt and Garlock, guards, probably will start Saturday although Walbridge and Lindsey played a good deal of fine ball at Compton. Foote was dissatisfied with the defense tactics of a few of his regulars and indicated that they might hold down the bench against Pasadena.

Don Johnson also will be hard to keep out of a guard position while Beatty is a good all around man, especially at center. Walbridge is a forward and Lindsey a guard while Max Appleby and Kiyoshi Higashi may also get in to play.

Because of final examinations, Coach Foote has scheduled no practice games for this or next week. There will be no preliminary to Saturday clash, at 8 p. m.

BEAR HUNTING

By GEORGE BRIGGS

Santa Ana Sportsman and Big Game Hunter

(This is the first of a series by George Briggs relating to the Santa Ana big game hunter's recent expedition after bear in the far north. Watch for the articles daily in The Register—Sport Editor's note.)

Some of my friends have been good enough to say the accounts of my northern hunts were interesting and have asked me to write the principal incidents of my last very successful hunt. It didn't take much insistence to obtain the promise and so here I am with the story.

I left Santa Ana August 8 and on my way north from Seattle was fortunate enough to be seated at the table with two brothers who were making their third hunt into Alaska and we found much in common to talk about, viz. guns, guides, habits of game, etc., and as these men were of the true hunter type, besides gentlemen of charming personality, I counted myself fortunate in meeting them. They were Matthew and John Lahti, of Boston, and were going into a new and unhunted country and expected much.

After Sheep, Grizzly

Part of their equipment had been sent in last winter by dog-team and a considerable portion of the way they would have to "mush" and carry a pack, and believe me, that means real stuff. They were after sheep and grizzly and I shall be glad, at some future time, to learn they were successful. (Since my return from Arizona I have had a letter from them saying the trip was awfully hard and their success none too good.)

I arrived at Wrangell, Alaska, aboard the Steamer Yukon about midnight and was met at the dock by Capt. Sid Barrington, of the Stickeen Transportation company and told they were leaving within

NATIONAL GAME OUT AS SCHOOL INTEREST LAX

The Orange league—the organization that started Walter Johnson as a pitcher years ago—will not play baseball this year.

Student and public apathy, and the heavy expenses incurred by the games without subsequent revenue, were assigned as reasons for abandonment of what writers once were prone to term the "national sport."

A necessity for establishing some recreation more beneficial also was described as one of the motives by the Orange League Principals' association, which took the action in meeting at Anaheim yesterday.

Nine schools are affected by the ruling. They are Tustin, Orange, Huntington Beach, Anaheim, Garden Grove, Brea-Olinda, San Juan Capistrano, Excelsior and Newport Harbor.

Only one school, Excelsior, opposed the proposition. Two other institutions, although favoring, desired to consider the measure further before voting baseball out.

The principals were unanimous in opinion that baseball has outserved its usefulness as an interscholastic activity. Several schools said they even had difficulty recruiting enough candidates for a team. All agreed that the general public was indifferent about prep baseball. Attendance has been so uniformly poor that at many schools baseball was a real loss financially, there being absolutely no gate receipts to compensate for a substantial outlay for suits and equipment.

Representatives agreed there should be some sport to replace baseball. Most of those favored as a substitute a schedule of "indoor baseball," a game that is played according to regular rules except that the bases are shorter, a larger ball is employed and the pitcher throws underhand. This type of ball, played at night in almost every

BY LES CONKLIN
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — Larry Sutton, dean of baseball scouts, who discovered such famous stars as Nick Altrock, "Dazzy" Vance, Zach Wheat, George Wiltse, Howard Ehmke, Casey Stengel and the late Jake Daubert, has sent a prospect up to the big time who may be one of the most colorful players in the game, if he survives the training camp test in the spring.

The newcomer is Clyde ("Pea Ridge") Day a pitcher known as the hog-calling king of the Ozark mountain country.

Day was tried and found wanting by the Cardinals and the Reds and he won only 13 games for Kansas City last season while losing 14. But Sutton recommended that the officials of the Brooklyn Robins draft him and they did so without hesitation, so great is their confidence in the veteran ivory hunter's judgment.

Even if Day fails to make the grade he will cause plenty of fireworks at training camp in Clearwater, Fla. Day is the cocky lad who, on hearing that Manager Wilbert Robinson was worrying about his pitching staff for next season, advised the rotund Brooklyn pilot that he, Day, was the very lad who sould solve the problem.

"Pea Ridge," like Altrock, one of Sutton's first finds, is a clown. Ever since winning the hog-calling crown of the Ozarks, he has been eager to display his vocal powers at every possible opportunity. It is said that he emits a loud "Wahoo" every time he throws a ball. Whether this procedure is designed to unnerve the batter is not clear. Judging from Day's record last season, it did not accomplish its purpose.

Not content with yelling while in the box, it is said that "Pea Ridge" keeps shrieking "Wahoo' even when he is warming up in the bull pen. Whether this procedure will be allowed by "Catfish" Bill Klem and other hard-boiled National league umpires, remains to be seen.

If he survives the training camp axe, Day should provide the Brooklyn club with something it has sadly lacked—color. Previous to last season, the Brooklyn fans obtained a plethora of entertainment from watching "Babe" Herman getting hit on the head by fly balls. But now that Herman has made great strides in improving his fielding, Day will be welcomed by those fans who demand daily amusement on the ball field.

Sutton would like to see the rookie make good and add one more game to the galaxy of stars he has uncovered. The veteran doesn't travel around nearly as much as he did in the old days, and will not be sending up many more recuits.

SWIM EXPERTS TO TAKE PART IN EXHIBITION

FULLERTON, Jan. 22.—Plans for an exhibition by what is declared to be the world's greatest individual swimming team, at Fullerton high school January 30, when the Hollywood Athletic club swimming team will appear at the local plunge, were announced today by Albert Dowden, swimming instructor.

Dowden declared that the Hollywood team, former national champions, has an even greater and more colorful personnel than when it won the title. He pointed out that the coming Olympic games in Los Angeles, caused many world-famous stars to become associated with the Hollywood organization.

Maiola Kilili, Hawaiian swimming sensation, who recently defeated "Buster" Crabbe, and his brother, Manuella Kilili, also world-famous, are to swim in races against each other, as well as with some of Dowden's swimmers.

Farid Samaka, Egyptian diving champion and holder of the senior high and fancy diving championships, also will appear. Samaka holds a victory over Mickey Riley and "Dutch" Smith, diving champions who recently staged staged an exhibition here.

Dorothy Poynton, far Western diving champion, who placed second in the 1928 Olympics, is another member of the Hollywood group. Duke Calaghan, Hollywood high school student, and holder of the interscholastic 220 yard record, will swim against the Kilili brothers.

The Lake Norconian club girls' relay swimming team, headed by Norene Forbes, twice winner of the annual Silver Gate swim, will appear in featured events, Dowden said. There is also a possibility that many other nationally known stars will take part in the exhibition.

VOTE BASEBALL OUT IN ORANGE LEAGUE

Southern California city and particularly popular throughout Orange county, will be played by the Orange league this year although the games will be conducted in the daytime.

Until recent years Orange county had been a baseball stronghold. Old timers here still talk about the famous pitcher's battle in 1905 between Walter Johnson, then a freshman at Fullerton high school, and George Coleman, of Santa Ana high school. The teams went 17 innings to a 0 to 0 tie. Johnson's pitching in this game attracted the attention of professional scouts who ultimately sent the gangling Johnson to a bush league in Idaho from when he went to Washington.

OMRE PENALTIES

The referee who officiated in the Navy-Princeton football game of 1929, which ended in a 13 to 13 tie, stepped off 110 yards in penalties against the Middies in the fourth quarter alone.

HERE'S MORE ABOUT BRIGGS HUNT TRIP

an hour, instead of noon the next day, as scheduled. As I always leave my street clothes and a suit case and don hunting togs at Wrangell, I had to hustle to make the change and get my stuff aboard the Hazel B-4.

Midnight Coffee

With the aid of Sid and the bunch I was aboard and drinking midnight coffee as we left the dock at 2 a. m. To me the most wonderfully scenic trip I have ever taken in the north or west, is the Stickeen river trip aboard these small boats. Just junk the idea of a big liner with the comforts that go with it, make up your mind to have and suffer a few inconveniences, and you will enjoy 175 miles of a panoramic view, not to be equalled anywhere, changes coming with a swiftness that hold your attention throughout the whole long day. A turbid mountain torrent, licking the feet of glaciers and snow-capped peaks, at every turn—gee, it's great, it's wonderful and I like it. A lot of inconveniences—yes, but scenery you can get nowhere else and food that gives you no cause for complaint.

Human Hospitality

Never have I seen such an abundance of well cooked food, served with so much human hospitality in so small a space. For "eats" my hat is off to these people.

After two and one-half days we arrived at Telegraph Creek, B. C., and a feeling of sadness came over me as I knew my friend, as well as my former outfitter, Frank Calibreath, would not be there to greet me with his cheery "Hello, Old Timer, I am glad to see you here again." Frank died last February at a ripe old age but a wonderful man just the same. He broke and ran train through Santa Ana for the Santa Fe soon after that road was built into San Diego and knew all the Forsters and others. A wonderful outfitter and a fine fellow. They mailed me a half-finished letter he was writing me about a hunt when the end came.

Starts Hunt August 15

I sailed out of Wilmington August 3 and started the hunt out of Telegraph Creek the morning of the 15th with seven head of splendid horses and the boy I took had made one of his first big trips with Howard Timmons and myself several years before. Since then he had developed into one of the finest looking young men I have ever seen—of the Bear Lake tribe, 6 feet tall, weighing 180, straight as an arrow, pleasing personality, features like a Caucasian, not a lazy bone in his body, anxious to please, knew the country and was a good hunter and trapper. A few more years' experience and he will top all the guides in that country if someone doesn't spoil him, and I predict that is going to be a hard thing to do. He made a hit with me because of the affectionate way he always spoke of his mother.

Days Grow Warmer

At our first camp we had ice in the morning but while we gradually got higher, the days seemed to grow warmer authough the nights were always snappy. The second day out I developed a mild case of rheumatism but kept traveling until the fourth day when I concluded to camp for a few days. We were at timberline with plenty of good water, snow on all the high peaks, splendid feed for the horses, and scattering game, such as caribou, sheep and goats.

In a few days I was all right, so concluded to move further into game country and to a place we afterwards called "sheep camp." On the way over we saw quite a few caribou bulls, singly and in bunches of five or six and in nearly every case they were either standing up or lying down on a snow glacier—with which this country is well supplied. Caribou are impervious to cold, as all authorities agree, for with a blizzard at 20 below, they will lay on the barrens as if it were a typical California day.

We made a good camp, loafed around, looked the game over and had a fine time until the morning of September 1 when, as usual, we went afield, but with this difference—now we could hunt in earnest. Our object was mountain sheep, that much sought and highly prized animal.

"These Exchange meetings make me glad to be a citrus grower"

"I HAVE confidence in our Exchange because it's run just the way I'd run my own individual business. These weekly meetings give me all the facts I should have—all the information I'd need if I were the sole owner instead of a member of a group of owners.

"All these details of shipments, crop forecasts, overhead expenditures and advertising investments are important to me as a citrus grower. I don't have to belong to the exchange, and I am very greatly interested in knowing I'm where I should be.

"There's another angle to these meetings. I like to get acquainted with other citrus growers and talk my problems over with them. This exchange of ideas is a big advantage of the cooperative method.

"So from every standpoint—factual, social and financial—these meetings make me glad to be a citrus grower. When I see and know everything we are doing I understand why it is that we Exchange members get the highest returns for our crops."

* * * * *

The facts are that the members are the Exchange. Every action of the group is made by and for the individual growers. This is assured first, by annual meetings of the local associations where reports are heard, policies determined and directors elected, who meet frequently; second, by weekly open meetings of the central Board of Directors where matters of current interest to the entire membership are discussed and decided. By attending these meetings or reading the published reports, every member is able to observe at all times that the Exchange is conducted in a manner calculated to bring him the highest average returns for his crops.

* * * * *

Interested non-member growers—Learn the facts. The manager of your nearest District Exchange or Exchange Association will be glad to answer your questions and acquaint you with the many reasons why over 75% of California and Arizona citrus growers find Exchange membership profitable. Or write, Growers Service Bureau, Box 530, Station C, Los Angeles, California.

WHAT THE EXCHANGE IS: The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of more than 12,500 citrus fruit growers, producing over 75% of the California and Arizona citrus crop, operated by and for them on a cooperative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for its Oranges, Lemons and Grapefruit, and to provide a marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at least expense. Receipts from sales, less only actual cost of operation, are returned to growers. Applications are received through all the Exchange's 214 local packing associations, 23 District Exchanges, or at the central office in Los Angeles.

Essex sedan averages 20.03 miles to the gallon of ECONOMY Gasoline ... from Los Angeles to Riverside and return

"UNUSUAL performance and thrifty economy"... the slogan of the 1931 Essex, fits ECONOMY Gasoline perfectly!

ECONOMY Gasoline does give "unusual performance," because it is a seasoned straight-run gasoline refined from the "top-layer" of choice Santa Fe crude. ECONOMY Gasoline gives "thrifty economy," too, because it produces more miles to the dollar.

This Essex, a brand-new stock model, had been driven less than 2000 miles, yet it averaged 20.03 miles to the gallon, using only 5 gallons and 58 ounces of ECONOMY Gasoline on the run from Los Angeles to Riverside and return. It was driven by its owner, C. W. Mahaney.

Prove it to yourself...that ECONOMY Gasoline actually means "more miles to the dollar." 900 Independent ECONOMY dealers are ready to serve you ... from the green ECONOMY pumps.

And remember...no matter how much you pay, you can't buy a better, purer gasoline than ECONOMY!

New Officers Named By Foothill Farm Center

CONSOLIDATION COMPLETED BY ORGANIZATIONS

VILLA PARK, Jan. 22.—Consolidation of the Villa Park-Olive and El Modena Farm centers took place last night at a meeting held in the Villa Park hall. The Foothill Farm center is the name of the new organization. The consolidation makes this group one of the largest in the state.

C. A. Palmer, of Olive, was elected president and W. M. Cummings, of El Modena, took office as vice president. John R. Ragan, of Villa Park, was named director and Al Hughes, of Olive, secretary.

Meetings will be held the second Wednesday of each month. During the meeting last night it was decided to participate in 4-H club work. Committees on water, tax, agriculture and legislation were formed but appointments to these committees were deferred until the next meeting.

H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor, gave a talk on "The Economic Use of Fertilizer," in which he pointed out that the results of experiments carried on in Orange county show that the best fertilizers the rancher here can use are simple nitrates and organic matter. Cost production statistics show that the average rancher spends from $10 to $165 per acre a year for fertilizer. Most of this amount is wasted, according to Wahlberg.

A tamale pie dinner was served to the members of the center previous to the business meeting. Mrs. Dan Gruell was in charge of the dinner.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE - WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.—Adv.

ATHLETE TALKS ON BASKETBALL AT ORANGE HIGH

ORANGE, Jan. 22.—Ray Harris, member of the basketball team of the University of Southern California, was the speaker at the meeting of the Boys' forum yesterday.

Harris pointed out the different systems of basketball as it is played in college and in high schools and declared that scholarship and athletic activities of the student should balance, one not overtopping the other.

How college basketball players train on trips about the country, traveling by night, and the importance of sleep and diet to the athlete were told by Harris.

Athletics are carried over into the business life of the student after he leaves high school, the speaker said, and standards maintained in college become those of business life.

CENTRAL AMERICA BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES OUTLINED BY ORANGE LIONS CLUB SPEAKER

ORANGE, Jan. 22.—The opportunities which await a young man in Central America were told yesterday at the meeting of the Lions club by Edward Nelson, who recently returned from that country. Nelson, who is a graduate of the Orange union high school, has spent the past two years and 10 months near Guatemala. He expects to remain in this city.

Nelson was connected with the United Fruit company, which maintains large plantations in Central America for raising bananas. H. O. Chambers was program chairman and introduced the speaker.

In 1899 the first bananas were shipped from Central America to the United States and previous to that period the fruit was not considered good food. This is true of the fruit if it is not properly ripened, Nelson said, but present methods of refrigeration and the gradual ripening of the fruit in store rooms where the heat is gradually increased, makes it one of the easiest digested of fruits.

"Bananas must be picked green and they are then placed on ships within 24 hours," the speaker said. A wide market for the banana has been created through extensive advertising and the industry has been an aid in developing Central American country which is unfit for raising any other product.

"A banana plantation is formed by clearing lanes in the jungle and in these lanes, sprouts from old stalks are planted. The jungle between the lanes is cut down and left to decay, furnishing fertilizer for the crops. The plantation may exist for 10 years and after this time is useless and the growers move further into the jungle, leaving the other land vacant. The bananas are planted 16 feet apart each way and the plants begin to bear in about 10 months, the best years being the second, third and fourth.

"In recent years there has been a change in the personnel of those who harvest and care for crops. Formerly fruit tramps did the work, but at the present time there is a demand for young men with college educations and engineering training in the work.

"The fruit company is looking for young men who want to get ahead and there is an excellent opportunity for those who can stand the climate and the rains.

"Rain falls every day between noon and 3 o'clock. It literally falls in blankets and sheets. After it is over the ground is steaming and those living there, find their clothing soaked. Tennis courts, swimming pools and polo grounds are provided by the company for the employes. Every effort is made to make their surroundings pleasant.

"The fact that a few men must be on close terms for months at a time constitutes a disagreeable feature of the work. They soon learn all there is to know about each other and get on each other's nerves. Employes attend dances in Guatemala City, a place of 200,000 inhabitants, every month.

"It costs $60 dollars to clear an acre of land for planting and $40 to drain it. The temperature is from 65 degrees above to 110 above and the heat is not bad but the humidity is not pleasant.

"Snakes are the chief menace of the jungle and every house is stocked with serums to act against snake bites."

ORANGE, Jan. 22.—A patriotic motif was carried out in the appointments for the dinner and for the lodge rooms yesterday, when members of the Women's Relief corps installed their officers for the coming year. Seventy-five were present at the dinner and red, white and blue flowers were used in carrying out the chosen color scheme.

A program preceded the installation ceremonies, Mrs. Rebecca Baier, president of the corps, presiding. The program included a reading by Charles Lee and a piano duet by Mrs. E. D. Grey and Mrs. Emma Chapman, of Santa Ana. Clyde Reynolds played a guitar accompaniment to a duet sung by Mrs. Reynolds and Miss Dorothy Reynolds, the daughter of the couple. Clyde Reynolds also sang "Soldier Son," playing his own accompaniment. Mr. and Mrs. Grey gave a duet.

Mrs. Florence Ober read a most interesting history of the local corps which had been written by a charter member of the organization, the late Miss Kate Hubbard. Mrs. Martha McDaniels read a history of the Daughters of Veterans here, and C. E. Parker, past state commander of the Sons of Veterans, read a history of that organization.

Announcements were made of the installation of officers of the Costa Mesa corps, when Orange officers will conduct the installation ceremonies and of the meeting of the federation of this district at Laguna Beach Monday.

Six veterans of the Civil war were present yesterday. Mrs. Emma Boworth, who is spending the winter in the home of Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss, and whose home is in Minnesota, gave a brief talk.

Annual reports were made and it was revealed that last year $200 had been devoted to relief work. A report was made of a recent visit to the Huntington Beach corps when Mrs. Pearl Higgins, Mrs. Rebecca Baier, Mrs. Nellie Callahan, and Mrs. Florence Merriman installed officers for the beach corps. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lee, Mr. and Mrs. John McKibben, Mrs. C. C. Hotchkiss and Miss Emma Bosworth also were present.

TWINS REVOLT

Charging that they were sold into bondage by their mother when they were babies in England, Daisy and Violet Skinner, 23-year-old Siamese twins known on the stage as the Hilton sisters, have filed suit against their guardians, Mr. and Mrs. Myer Rothbaum of San Antonio, Texas, asking for an injunction and an accounting of their stage earnings. The twins, shown below, recently fled from the Rothbaum home. Mr. and Mrs. Rothbaum say the suit results from the twins' desire for a "whoopee" life.

ARMY REPORTS HUNDREDS ARE GIVEN SHOES

Hundreds of men out of work, their shoes worn out with walking the streets, have been given shoes during the past week by the Salvation army of this city, according to Brig. Paul Heisinger, in charge of the industrial department. These men go to the men's social service department of the army, where they are looked after, he said.

"It is about our only source of income," Brig. Heisinger stated, "but we are happy to forget the income for a little if we can help the men who are in such dire distress.

"This department of the Salvation army is not subsidized by any organization, depending on its collection of old materials, clothing, furniture, magazines, newspapers, and the resale of these same things, to pay the wages of the unemployed men who come to it for help.

It was pointed out by the officer that all kinds of men's clothing, suits, overcoats, hats, caps, shoes, anything to keep men warm are needed. Those who have anything men can wear should call the Salvation army, and the truck with the big red shield will be sent for them, he said.

He suggested, also, that while the price of paper is very low the Salvation army has never ceased to collect it. Those who have piles of newspapers in the garage, or elsewhere, should call the industrial, after they have been laid in even piles so that they may be handled without extra labor, and have the truck collect them, he requested.

"Those who know of the work of the Salvation army know that it is facing one of its hardest tasks just now in caring for all who are depending on it for aid," he declared.

TWELFTH DISTRICT REALTORS WILL CONVENE HERE FRIDAY

The meeting of the Santa Ana Realty board tomorrow will take the form of a sales conference, with a session starting at 10 a. m. and continuing into the afternoon. The meeting will be held at Ketner's cafe and will be a twelfth district gathering to which the public is invited.

Guy E. Ellis, of Detroit, will be in charge of the conference and will speak during the morning session on two subjects, "Some Commissions Paid by Property Briefs" and "How to Make Appreciative Prospects." The speaker for the afternoon session will be Gerald Healy, of Flint, Mich., who will discuss "The Dollars You Are Missing Down the Street" and "New Approaches to Business Men."

Frank Pope, vice president of the California Real Estate association, will preside at the noon luncheon.

THREE R'S IN SCHOOL GAIN FAVOR AGAIN

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Elementary schools of Santa Ana will in the future be asked to emphasize elementary subjects—namely the "Three R's."

Such is the object of a movement that has already gained considerable momentum in California, finding its climax in a report of the California Commission for the Study of Educational Problems, following a year's investigation and study of school systems.

"Cut out the frills, and teach 'em readin', writin' and 'rithmetic," the investigators were told by thousands of business men, employers and parents whom they interviewed.

Almost unanimously, the persons who answered queries involving more than 11,000 high school graduates declared the average "lacked in accuracy and precision in spelling, arithmetic, punctuation, grammar and penmanship."

"Colleges issues a general complaint that freshmen must be instructed in subjects which should have been mastered in the grades," the report continued.

'It is difficult to explain to parents and employers why children who have attended elementary and high schools for some 10 or 12 years are unable to solve simple arithmetic problems quickly and accurately or write correctly and grammatically."

Under present state law, a minimum of twelve subjects are required in elementary schools, with at least 50 per cent of the work devoted to reading, writing, language, spelling and arithmetic.

Many educators have expressed themselves in favor of giving more time and emphasis to these subjects but point out the curriculum is fixed by the legislature and any change must be made by that body.

"Studying and working at the same time as I do keeps you on a strain," says John Armstrong, 1112 W. Santa Barbara Ave., Los Angeles, Cal.

"So my digestion suffered. I got so I would have severe headaches and a heavy feeling in my stomach after meals. I had gas on the stomach; would belch often, leaving a sour, hot taste in my mouth. Few things agreed with me.

"A friend got me to take some Pape's Diapepsin. I had immediate relief from the first few tablets, so I kept on with it. Now I feel fine; eat all the pastries and sweets I want without bad after-effects. I intend to keep on with Pape's Diapepsin until I am sure my trouble won't come back. The tablets are pleasant to chew and sure get results quickly."

Pape's Diapepsin is the best thing yet discovered to end digestive worries, give tone to a disordered stomach, increase appetite, make digestion vigorous and complete. Its success in so many cases where everything else has failed, proves that.

All drugstores sell these harmless, pleasant tablets. If you prefer to try them before buying, a letter to Pape's Diapepsin, Wheeling, W. Va., will bring a sample box, FREE.

1931 WILL REWARD CAREFUL SAVERS

A 41-Year Old "Greatcoat"

Benjamin Franklin, born 225 years ago last Saturday, printed this advice in his "Almanac;" "When 'tis fair, be sure to take your greatcoat with you."

For 41 years, Pacific States Savings has adhered to this wise counsel . . . maintaining at all times a position of financial preparedness adequate, not only for ordinary needs, but for extraordinary demands as well.

By such steadfast conservatism, we have held the confidence of three generations of savers. And that 3,400 new savings customers have placed funds here since January 1st, is evidence that this policy continues to find approval.

We encourage the use of our savings' service for investment purposes only. Nevertheless, it has been our long-established custom to meet without notice customers' emergency needs for funds.

Send for our Statement. And on the basis of the time-tested strength it reveals, consider the attractiveness here of 6% and 5¼% interest on savings.

Santa Ana Broker Wins Gifted Woman Lawyer As His Wife

An abundance of early spring flowers combined to form an attractive setting for a wedding which took place yesterday in St. Stephen's church of Monterey park when Miss Marie Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murphy of Alhambra, and Clyde H. Ellis exchanged vows.

The ceremony was one of much simplicity with the Rev. Francis Dillon as the officiating minister. It was to have been an event of October, but was postponed because of a death in the bridegroom's family. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis will make their home at the old Ellis homeplace near Talbert for the present. However, they plan to build a new home on the ranch in the near future.

Mrs. Ellis is a native of New Hampshire, and a graduate of Boston university. She has been practicing law for a number of years, and is a member of the California State bar as well as the Massachusetts bar and the American Bar association. She was an active member of the Professional Woman's club of Boston, and the Massachusetts association of women lawyers, and more recently has been associated with the Los Angeles Woman Lawyers' club.

Talk On Old Mexico Features Club Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Newcomb jr., were special guests last evening at the meeting of the Wrycende Maegdenu club of the Y. W. C. A. held in the Y. W. rooms. Mr. Newcomb was the speaker of the evening, discussing the realm and people of old Mexico as one of the series of travel talks which the business girls have been privileged to hear.

His talk was illustrated with pictures taken on the recent good will tour to Mexico. Mr. Newcomb stated that one of the main aqueducts of the country is over 400 years old, and is in remarkable condition. The beauties of Mexico City were stressed, and were declared to be in great contrast with the dull and drab lives which most of the people live because of their lack of education.

Dinner served at 6 o'clock fitted in with the subject of the evening, for chili beans constituted the main course. Tables were decked with bouquets of pastel-tinted flowers.

During the business meeting it was announced that the service committee of the club, with Miss Muriel Kuhl as chairman, will hold a meeting Sunday morning at 8 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A., at which time breakfast will be served. All of the committee members are expected to be present.

At the next meeting of the club, Wednesday evening, January 28, A. T. Jackson will be the speaker, and will give an illustrated talk on Yellowstone and Zion National parks. This will be open to the public and will be held in the Y. W. C. A. rooms at 7 o'clock.

George Walkers Will Make Their Home In South Pasadena

During their residence in this city, with Mr. Walker as county Boy Scout executive, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker have made a host of friends, several of whom have entertained in their honor recently as the Walkers will leave soon to make their home in South Pasadena. Mr. Walker has been appointed Boy Scout executive of that city.

Most of the affairs have been informal little dinner parties, and among these was one given with Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Marshall as hosts in their home in Anaheim. Narcissus and sweet peas decked the rooms. Sharing the affair with hosts and honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gus Leive and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Dowds of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Beckman were other recent hosts, entertaining in their home at 1338 South Parton street. At this time Mr. and Mrs. Dowds and Mr. and Mrs. Walker were the guests of the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowman were dinner hosts to the Walkers last evening, serving the delectable menu in their home at 1218 South Broadway.

Robert Walker, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Walker, has come in for his share of affairs, and recently was honor guest at a surprise party planned by a group of his friends. Arriving at the home of Ray Archer in Tustin he found guests assembled to take part in the farewell party. Dinner was served at a prettily appointed table decked with red and blue candles which harmonized with the clever place cards fashioned by Ray Archer.

Adjourning to the home of John McFarland at 303 Orange avenue in this city, guests enjoyed the dessert course. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing Mah-jong.

Those present, other than the honor guest, Robert Walker, were Miss Roberta Warnke, Miss Florence Schmideke, Miss Esther Schmideke, Miss Alberta Green and John McFarland, Earl Motley and Ray Archer.

New Zealander Will Lecture at Ebell On Island Life

"A Program of Films, Facts and Phases" is the alliterative title given by Miss Bathie Stuart, entertaining New Zealand lecturer, to the address which she will deliver before members of Ebell society at their meeting Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the clubhouse auditorium.

Miss Stuart is said to be the only white woman interpreting the unusual folk lore of the Maori people, and comes to the United States with the official endorsement of the New Zealand government. She has appeared on many Southland programs, always arousing the keenest of interest and admiration.

Rhythmical dances, including some rather terrifying war dances, quaint native love songs and the weird chants of the Maoris, are interpreted by her as she develops her story of the growth and progress of the native New Zealander since days of cannibalism barely a hundred years ago.

Her appearance on the lecture platform in the native dress of the Maoris, adds interest to the lecture.

Contract Bridge Made Lecture Theme

Half a hundred ardent bridge players yesterday took advantage of the opportunity to hear Mrs. W. H. Haddon's illuminating lecture on contract bridge, delivered in the Ebell clubhouse under the auspices of the finance committee of Ebell society.

In explaining some of the intricacies of the game, Mrs. Haddon asked the foursome at each of the twelve tables in play, to arrange hands in accordance with one which she illustrated by pointing out the plays and exposing the vulnerability of two players as compared with the invulnerability of their opponents.

At the conclusion of her half hour of instruction, she moved among the tables, advising players and making suggestions for bids and plays. As a finale to the interesting session, members of the committee served delectably crisp little cookies and tea. It was suggested by Mrs. R. O. Winckler, that many of those present, might like to continue their studies of contract at future meetings with Mrs. Haddon as instructor.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

M. E. Missionary

Echoes of the branch quarterly meeting held last week in Pasadena were features of the monthly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the First Methodist church held yesterday afternoon in the church parlor. Mrs. Guthrie, president of the society, presided. Devotionals led by Mrs. W. C. Baker were on the topic, "From the Temple Doors to the Altar."

A number of interesting reports were given, and these included one by Mrs. Hearn, who talked on the Sunset shares, a fund for retired missionaries. Each share is for $5, and there were eleven raised. Mrs. W. D. Finn told of the Standard Bearers' society, which has a membership of 27 girls. They used the study book, "A Cloud of Witnesses."

Mrs. J. Frank Burke, program chairman, called for a missionary demonstration put on by five Queen Esther girls. The remainder of the time was devoted to a review of a chapter from the study book, "India Looks to Her Future," given by Miss Blanche Collings. Hymns were sung early in the afternoon, with Mrs. Jessie Albright leading and Mrs. O'Brien at the piano.

Presbyterian Aid

Members of the Aid society of the First Presbyterian church who gathered at the church yesterday for an all-day meeting spent the morning sewing. A sumptuous dinner was served at noon, and was well attended.

The business session was opened at an early hour in the afternoon with Mrs. J. R. Moore, president of the society, in charge. Mrs. Lewis Gall led devotionals. Miss Margaret Baxter gave two piano solos, "Etude" by Chopin and "Pack o' Lanterns" by Philippe. Two readings, "Cheer Up Honey" and "What the Boy Said" were given by Miss Margaret Gaebe, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

Decorations for the affair were especially lovely, and were carried out through the use of poinsettias and French bouquets.

St. Ann's Church Is Setting For Pretty Morning Wedding

Wedded this morning at 8 o'clock in St. Ann's church, Mr. and Mrs. William McBride lingered only long enough to receive the congratulations of the score of guests assembled for the ceremony, then proceeded at once to Huntington Park and the pretty home awaiting them there. Mrs. McBride was Miss Mollie Carroll, daughter of George Carroll of North McClay street, and her betrothal to the young Los Angeles business man was announced in the midst of the holidays at a charming party given by Miss Cleora Fine.

Miss Fine served as honor maid at this morning's ceremony, which was conducted with the utmost simplicity because of the illness of the Rev. Father L. P. Golden of the St. Ann parish. Earlier plans for the wedding had included a special mass at 6 a. m. and an elaborate ceremony, but in the illness of the pastor, these plans were changed. The Rev. Father Leo, of the Passionate Order of Missionaries, Sierra Madre, and a guest in the city, read the ceremony.

Miss Carroll was lovely in the gray tweed tailleur with gray fox fur which she had chosen for traveling. All dress accessories such as hat, gloves, slippers and purse, were in blue, a color which received emphasis from the blue ensemble costume worn by her maid of honor, Miss Fine. Andrew Carroll, brother of the bride, assisted Mr. McBride as best man.

Mrs. W. McBride of Los Angeles, was among the guests at the nuptials of her son, Mr. McBride sr., being unable to attend as he is in the east on a business trip. All guests were confined to relatives and a very few close friends.

Hosts Plan Enjoyable Birthday Party and Housewarming

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Garlick had a double incentive for a lovely party over which they presided on a recent evening, for they entertained to observe Mrs. Garlick's birthday anniversary and to give a housewarming in their new home at 1507 West Washington avenue.

Guests arrived at an early hour and with them brought a handsome carved end table and numerous other gifts in honor of Mrs. Garlick's natal day. Cleverly composed was a poem, "A Friend Like You," dedicated to the honoree by Mrs. C. E. Jackson. Bridge was the diversion of the evening and when tallies were checked, prizes were awarded to Mrs. W. P. McConnell and C. E. Jackson for scoring high. To Mrs. Dolores L. Morrison and Floyd Gage went consolation honors.

To conclude the enjoyable evening, Mrs. Garlick spread the card tables with bright-hued cloths carrying out the Valentine motif, and served ice cream with cake iced in white and topped with birthday candles.

Those present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Garlick were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wallace, Mrs. Elizabeth Price, Miss Lillian Dawson, Mrs. Amanda Holmes, H. A. Schacht, Mrs. Lydia Phipps, Mr. and Mrs. O. Clynick, Mr. and Mrs. L. McCracken, Mrs. Beulah Brightwell, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. McConnell, Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Ludlow and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Park, of this city; Mrs. Dolores L. Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Covey, of Costa Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gage and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reber of Balboa.

Evening of Bridge Is Birthday Observance

An informal little affair of the week was that given by Mrs. A. K. Loerch jr. when she entertained in her home on North Main street honoring the birthday anniversary of Miss Virginia Berry. An open fireplace sheltered a fire which blazed and flickered, forming a hospitable setting for the affair.

Yellow blossoms added a touch of color to the room where bridge was played. Miss Alyce Majors succeeded in scoring high, receiving an attractive prize, and at this time Miss Berry was presented with some lovely gifts. To conclude the evening, Mrs. Loerch served a tempting supper. Miss Beth Westcott completed the congenial quartet.

Food for Thought While Strolling

You have heard of people being "born tired." Well, I think I must have been born hungry, for one of the things I like best to do is to take my own good time in strolling through the open air markets I find in some of my jaunts. On second thought, it must be my artistic side trying to come up for air, for I do not always think of what the foods will taste like, I admire their colorful arrangement and enjoy talking to the market people.

Always I get valuable information from them: I stopped at a stall to look at a fine display of farm-raised poultry, noting the weight and price on each tag; one or two birds struck me as being much under price for the grade, so I asked "why?" Mrs. Farmer picked up the bird and showed me its crooked breastbone, the youthful result of tucking its head under its wing incorrectly or some such silly thing ..anyway, it couldn't be graded as a first-class bird so it had to go on the bargain counter although perfect in all other ways.

Then there were the mounds of crisp leafy, vegetables—ruddy beets with tops for greens, the rusty-gold of bunched carrots, smug fat heads of cabbage and cauliflower, boutonnieres of Brussels sprouts, and broccoli—do you know that vegetable?—and a vast salad bowl arrangement of red radishes, slender green onions, bunches of deep green watercress, curled parsley, and over beyond, mounds 'n' mounds of yellow grape-fruit, lemons and oranges.

I could tell you oodles more but am afraid you would go and do as I did, buy until your purse was empty and your Family water-logged at the prospect of so much food.

TODAY'S RECIPE
CREAM PUFFS

1 cup flour
1-2 cup butter
1 cup boiling water
4 eggs

Add the butter to the hot water and bring to a hard boil, sift the flour through the fingers into the water, stirring constantly. Cook until the paste is very thick and leaves the sides of the vessel.

Set the paste away to cool, when sufficiently so, break the first egg into the paste, beat and stir vigorously for at least four minutes to work it in. Do the same thing with each of the remaining three eggs, then drop in spoonfuls on a buttered pan and bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (protect the tops with buttered paper if they get too brown.)

Shape with a knife and spoon unless you have a pastry bag and can manipulate it. Eclairs can be fairly well made with the aid of two knives to shape the paste into a long narrow roll.

Dabs of frosting on the tops of long ones with a custard or whipped cream filling, make them Eclairs. The big round ones are just Cream Puffs.

FILLING FOR CREAM PUFFS
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Pinch of salt

Whip eggs, sugar, salt and cornstarch smoothly together, stir into hot milk and cook over hot water until a smooth thick filling results. Fill the cream puffs with this cream, putting it into a slit in the side of the puff.

The calory total for the cream puff recipe is almost 1200. These cakes belong to the energy makers. A fair estimate for a filled puff is 200 calories.

Brea Lodge Members Plan Surprise Party

Both Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dunning were very much surprised Tuesday evening when a group of friends from Brea, all members of Trinity Rebekah lodge of that city, arrived at their home on West Pine street to observe Mr. Dunning's birthday anniversary, an event yesterday.

The self-invited guests came prepared for an evening of bridge, and after several rounds of the game, prizes were awarded to Mrs. George Lewis and Floyd Horricks for holding high scores. Mrs. Henry Rudd and Mrs. Dunning received awards for scoring second high. Although Mr. Dunning did not win at bridge, he was presented with some handsome gifts on behalf of the assembled friends.

At a late hour a tempting supper was served, and included sandwiches, fruit salad, cake and coffee.

Those present other than Mr. and Mrs. Dunning, were Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rudd, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Horrick, Miss Helen Fox and William Rudd, all of Brea.

Calumpit Auxiliary

A gratifyingly large attendance at Tuesday's meeting of Calumpit auxiliary, U. S. W. V. showed the interest of the members in the work of the coming year under the newly installed officers, all of whom were present to conduct the business meeting.

Mrs. Elizabeth Erickson presided in her new capacity as president, and those present remarked upon the eagerness shown by the membership in general in plans for larger accomplishments during the coming year. Many of these plans were outlined, adding to the interest of the business session.

Two new members were initiated, Mrs. Anna Miller and Mrs. Della Cragin. Plans were also completed for the social meeting of the coming week when Calumpit camp and auxiliary will join in the monthly covered dish dinner to be served Tuesday, January 27, at 6:30 o'clock in Knights of Columbus hall.

Native Sons

Judge Donald J. Van Luven of San Bernardino acted as installing officer Monday evening when Native Sons of the Golden West met in Knights of Columbus hall. A large delegation from San Diego was present for the occasion.

New officers installed included Dr. C. E. Price, junior past president; Walter E. Hiskey, president; Raymond Marsile, first vice president; Ray Adkinson, second vice president; Carl J. Schultz, third vice president; Amos Huntzinger, marshal; A. G. Selvidge, T. B. Morrow and Jo backs, trustees; Russell S. Adkinson, inside sentinel and Clyde S. Planchon, outside sentinel.

A musical program followed and was provided by visiting members from San Diego. Both vocal and instrumental selections were offered. Members concluded the evening with a late supper, arrangements for which were in charge of Raymond Marsile.

Members of Santa Ana parlor Native Sons will motor to San Bernardino this evening to install officers. Walter Hiskey will act as installing officer.

DIVORCE COMEDY AT WEST COAST ENDS

"Divorce Among Friends," a domestic comedy-drama which features Irene Delroy and Lew Cody with James Hall, comes to the end of its run at the Fox West Coast theater tonight. The picture opened here yesterday.

Light and gay for the most part, the picture has its tense moments and the plot is particularly clever and well founded. It is the story of a husband who is forced to build up one alibi after another to keep his youthful bride with him, but who wins out in the end.

The picture is a Warner Brothers production. Aside from the feature are seen several short subjects and an all-talking comedy.

'BYRD AT POLE' FILM CLOSES RUN TODAY

The daring flight of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd across the South Pole is only one of the feats of daring and heroism captured by the Paramount cameraman who brought "With Byrd at the South Pole," a thrilling picture of adventure, to the United States. The feature film, which closes tonight at Walker's State theater, is a continuous drama, filled with adventure, humor, thrills and romance.

Never before has such a colorful pictorial record been spread on the screen. More than 30 miles of film were required to perfect it. From the moment Rear Admiral Byrd and his intrepid band of explorers landed in the unknown region at the "bottom of the world," until they started the final trek for home, the life they led, the sights they saw, the thrills they experienced are in this film for everybody to wonder and marvel at.

Wife Was Fat No Longer Attractive

Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper of April 4 in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their beauty just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat how would you like to lose it and at the same time gain in physical charm and acquire a clean, clear skin and eyes that sparkle with buoyant health?

And gain in energy and activity? Why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting out pastry and fatty meats and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

You'll have the surprise of your life and best of all a bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last you for 4 weeks costs 85 cents—you'll probably say its worth one hundred dollars after you take the first bottle.

Kruschen Salts are a blend of 6 natural revitalizing salts your body, nerves and glands should have if you are to enjoy good health. Ask Mateer Drug Store, Givens & Cannon, or any druggist for a bottle of Kruschen Salts and start to lose fat today—and remember this, if Kruschen doesn't do as advertised—money back.

Edith J. Marriott of Baltimore, writes— "I reduced from 200 to 145. When my friends say—Oh! how slender you've gotten—I say only 4 words—Thanks to Kruschen Salts."—(Adv.)

Madame Lazelle will be located on the mezzanine floor of the theater and an admission ticket to the theater is all that is needed by any woman in Santa Ana to have an interview with the famous clairvoyant.

All interviews will be strictly private and women may ask what they choose whether it be past, present or future.

Madame Lazelle is known from Coast to coast for her success in predicting things that are to happen and is just as good at telling things that have happened in the past. Any interview with her is expected to prove not only interesting but enlightening.

WHAT'LL WE DO NOW?

LONDON—If you've been contemplating a monkey gland operation for rejuvenating that tired body of yours you'll have to wait awhile. There's a shortage of monkey glands just now, due, according to surgeons, to the wholesale slaughter of animals in their native lands. It is hoped that regulations will be placed on the killing of monkeys in the future.

"MIN AND BILL" IS BIG SUCCESS HERE

With Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in the principal roles, "Min and Bill," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's amazing drama of the conflict of a foster mother's struggle against a natural mother for the happiness of a child, sounds a new note in film entertainment. The vivid drama, now playing at the Fox Broadway theater, is one of the most gripping tales the screen has seen since "Madam X."

Incidentally, it shows Miss Dressler in her first character role since "Anna Christie." Miss Dressler has a powerful role as Min, keeper of a waterfront dive, who is driven to a desperate act to protect the child whom she loves.

Wallace Beery, sinister Butch of "The Big House," plays a vastly different role, as the good-natured but truculent sea captain in love with Min, and Marjorie Rambeau, famous stage star, new to the screen, forms the third of the triangle as the dissolute Bella. Each of these interesting roles is enacted with all the skill of the artists playing them.

Dorothy Jordan and Donald Dillaway furnish the love interest as the daughter and her sweetheart and Russell Hopton is the "heavy" playing the part with restrained skill. DeWitt Jennings, Frank McGlynn and Gretta Gould fill interesting roles with deft skill.

The earth is said to weigh six sextillion (a six with 21 zeros after it) tons.

Hospitals specify Kotex
—so should you!

THE outstanding hospitals of America make it a point to specify Kotex for their women patients. They use Kotex absorbent for dozens of important surgical cases. No approval could be more important to you.

Kotex is preferred because it absorbs correctly—over a large surface, not just in one concentrated spot; because it deodorizes; because it is hygienically safe.

And you can wear Kotex on either side in perfect safety.

Kotex softness is not a mere deceptive surface softness that soon packs into chafing discomfort. It stays soft and comfortable for hours. And so easily disposed of!

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN — PICTURES by KNICK

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Of course, it wasn't very long until some snoring, rather strong, was echoing upon the air. The Tinies were asleep. The Travel Man then sigher and said, "I think we'd better go to bed. The lads are deep in slumberland. Till morn they will not peep."

"That suits me fine," the native said. "I'll gladly rest my weary head. Tomorrow we will finish with this ride down this long stream. A lot of sights the boys will see and they'll be pretty as can be. Sometimes, to me, this river ride is almost like a dream."

It wasn't long till bright dawn broke and with it everyone awoke. They ate a hurried breakfast and were shortly on their way. The ride down stream seemed very fast. Great trees and jungle lands whizzed past. The Indian Ocean soon was reached and Clowny cried, "Hurry."

The Travel Man then paid their guide and thanked him for a lovely ride. And then they took a larger boat and set right out to sea. "At Madagascar we will stop to look around upon this hop," explained the kindly Travel Man. Wee Scouty whispered, "Gee!"

They landed at Majunga, where the Tinies hoped for pleasures rare. And, sure enough, such pleasures came. The sights were marvelous. The townsfolk eyed the little boys and with their chatter, made much noise. Said Coppy, "We are strange to them and they're surprised at us."

A little native lad walked by. The others then heard Clowny cry, "Hey, look! A basket's on his head. It's full of big ducks, too." "He's taking them to market, son," the Travel Man replied. "It's fun! You'll be surprised, I'm pretty sure, at lots of things they do."

(Clowny has an exciting time in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sound hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

FALL to DEAD—Please don't FALL DEAD if you happen to shoot a par three on this letter links hole. The worst duffer should have no difficulty.

PROHIBITION IS GIVEN PRAISE IN PLACENTIA

"Obedience to the law is liberty," said Dr. Andrew Johnson, noted lecturer, as he spoke at a union meeting held at Calvary church in Placentia Wednesday evening in the interests of prohibition.

The Rev. D. J. Brigham, pastor of the Presbyterian church; the Rev. M. R. Dutton of the Church of the Nazarene, and Mrs. Guy L. Kay, president of the W. C. T. U., were in charge of the meeting. The Rev. Mr. Brigham opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Carl H. Seamans, of Yorba Linda, played one of her own compositions, "Sunrise on the Alps," and played the accompaniment for another, "Echoes of the Cottonfields," sung by Mrs. J. L. Allbee. The Rev. Mr. Dutton led in congregational singing, with Don Milligan at the piano.

Dr. Johnson stated that the Wickersham committee, in spite of what the wet press reported, was 98 per cent in favor of the dry cause; that the members brought out five distinct points, against repeal of the 18th amendment, against modifying it, against state or federal control, and against the old time saloon, and asked for more money to uphold prohibition.

"Liquor traffic people are great personal and political liars," he stated, "and when they say there is as much drinking as there used to be, it is not so. There was as much whiskey made in Kentucky before prohibition as in all the United States now.

'Drinking among girls is not the new thing the wet press would have us believe, for before prohibition a Chicago man made a census of drinking girls and found 14,000. One street in Cincinnati had 725 saloons. A Kansas City newspaperman has kept a check of drunks in the city park over a period of years and while there used to be from six to seven hundred drunks in one night, now he never finds more than two.

"Science, society and the wrecking of the moral world are witnesses against the use of alcohol. The 18th amendment does not interfere with the rights of the people but it does prevent public harm, just as other laws do. People who are against this amendment are still living in a past age when people rode in buggies and when one home in every seven furnished a real drunkard."

Audition To Be Staged Tomorrow In KREG Studio

At 3 p. m. tomorrow an audition will be conducted in the studio of KREG, Santa Ana radio station.

Entertainers who wish to appear in radio performances will be given tryouts at the studio. Eugene Browne, KREG program manager, will be in charge of the audition.

Roy Hale is chairman of the 4-H committee, with V. C. Stocking as leader. Warren S. Ingham was appointed on citrus, Charles Knowlton on walnut, William Wallop on water, Louis Jacobsen on taxation, W. Court Notes

Foreclosure of a mechanic's lien against property in Anaheim is sought in a complaint that was filed in superior court yesterday by W. R. Covington against Raymond G. Hilsinger et al. The plaintiff asks judgment of $190.98 plus certain costs.

Alleged default in monthly payments under a contract for purchase of property at La Palma Gardens is the basis for an action that was filed yesterday by Porter Brothers against Harold A. Browning and others. The plaintiffs ask a decree of quiet title and cancellation of a recorded agreement for the sale of real estate.

Hayden T. Marsh and Mamie V. Marsh are plaintiffs in a complaint that was filed yesterday in superior court against Charlie and Anna Mitchell based on a promissory note in the amount of $2000 which was signed at Long Beach on Feb. 5, 1930. Default on the note has been made, according to the complaint, and a trust deed foreclosed, but a balance of $1901.52 remains due and unpaid, according to the complaint.

A charge of desertion is brought against Freda Wilson in a divorce complaint filed against her by W. L. Wilson in superior court yesterday afternoon. The Wilsons were married in Los Angeles on Nov. 5, 1918, and separated Nov. 16, 1923.

Charging that his wife told him she no longer loved him but did love another man, and that on one occasion she fired a gun at him, R. A. Norton today filed suit for divorce against Elsie Norton. In addition to cruelty he charged that his mate deserted him on March 29, 1929, while they were living in McNeal, Ariz. They were married in 1926.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A break in corn near the close helped pull the props from under the other grains on the Board of Trade today and the close was lower. Selling in corn sent the prices down to where stop loss orders were picked up but buying against bids checked the decline. Wheat was unsettled with selling meeting the early bulge in July and erasing the early advance, later falling below the previous close in sympathy with corn. Oats were dominated by the major grains and fell with them.

At the close wheat was unchanged to ⅛c lower with July ½c lower, corn was one and 1¼c lower and oats were ¼ to ⅝c lower. Provisions were steady to weak.

Joseph's Strange Quest

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

"Joseph!" cried Phelps.

"He was bare-headed," Holmes went on, "but he had a black cloak thrown over his shoulder, so that he could conceal his face in an instant in case of an alarm. He walked on tiptoe to the window of your room, and when he reached it, worked a long-bladed knife through the sash and pushed back the catch. Then he flung open the window, raised the shade, and stepped in.

"From where I lay I had a perfect view of the inside of the bedroom and of every one of Joseph's movements. First he lit the two candles which stood on the mantelpiece. . . .

"Then Joseph proceeded to turn back the corner of the carpet in the neighborhood of the door. Presently he stooped, and picked out a square piece of board, such as is usually left to enable plumbers to get at the joints of the gas-pipes. . . .

"Out of this hiding place your future brother-in-law drew that cylinder of paper I restored to you this morning—the stolen Treaty. He regarded it with satisfaction, stuck it into a pocket, restored board and carpet, and blew out the candles. . . .

TRUST LAWS AND PROGRESS

Samuel Untermyer, in an interview yesterday in Los Angeles, took occasion to suggest that the American trust laws should be wiped from the statute books. For practical purposes, they are already a dead letter.

Statutory enactments will never be able to prevent the natural and logical development of industry, commercialization and trade. We have long passed the period when people generally believed that a business institution must be bad simply because it is big. Neither is it bad simply because it is the only one of its kind serving, or what we commonly speak of as a "monopoly."

Industrial and economic leaders know full well that producing quality goods for less price spells success for the institution doing it, and for the nation, if all of its institutions are accomplishing this result. This leads naturally to the cutting down of overhead and the waste and expense through competitive methods. When there are many institutions producing the same character of goods, there must necessarily be many executives, many office employes, much more invested in office buildings and rentals and a great army of salesmen for each institution, plying their trade, criss-crossing each other's routes throughout the country.

The moment these are eliminated, and all of the institutions come under one head, a tremendous overhead expense is eliminated, and mass production in one plant is carried on, which reduces the cost per unit in the plant itself. The public, as a rule, receives the benefits therefrom.

There are reductions in the price of the article, and by many articles so reduced a rise in the standards of living comes about.

To be sure, the selfishness of men tends to cause the profits derived from such combinations to pretty largely reach the pockets of those who are responsible for combining the interests, but advantages and profits there certainly are, and combinations are bound to be made. While Mr. Untermyer in his interview did not suggest how, he is right when he emphasized the idea that these combinations are here,—they are here to stay, and they await regulation.

The regulatory measures should look toward distributing the profit and advantages that are gained from such combinations. As a matter of fact, the government should encourage such combinations for the benefit of all the people. But it should also see that the regulatory laws are such that the benefits are distributed to all the folks, and not simply to the "organizers."

There is no question but what we are receiving better service, at cheaper rates, from our public utilities than we would receive if there were unrestricted, wild competition, with many companies endeavoring to get a little trade for their electric current or other utility commodity produced.

Give the combination the assurance of a degree of protection on the one hand, and regulate on the other to the end that its powerful machinery will be used for public benefit and not entirely for private gain, and the trusts and combinations will come into their full service.

TAXING BACHELORS

Two Representatives in the Colorado House yesterday proposed the taxation of bachelors to care for dependent children in state institutions.

Why the discrimination against the bachelor? The suggestion undoubtedly came from Italy where bachelors are taxed in an effort to induce them to marry and so increase the population of Italy so that there will be man-power for future wars.

Possibly in the case of these two Representatives jealousy is at the basis of the proposal. Married people always have a grudge against bachelors and maiden ladies. They are always trying to marry them off. "Misery loves company," is a truism but it is not a noticeable attribute of human nature to make tremendous efforts to spread happiness. So it must be the misery impetus which inspires people to want their friends to get married.

Really happily married people know full well just how close are the shadings, sometimes, between marital happiness and misery. It makes them cautious about urging marriage on other people.

But this is a considerable wandering from the taxation of bachelors in Colorado. Can you hear what the cowboys will say about it? No matter how high the tax there are some who would prefer it to a wife. Such is the curse a wife has upon her.

MR. EINSTEIN DEMONSTRATES

According to the news coming out of Pasadena, a mathematical formula, or may we say a mathematical equation, which Mr. Einstein has produced, is able to explain all natural phenomena. And then we are told that this mathematical equation is composed of 16 unknown quantities and four quantities that are assumed. We suppose that these are all constants and no variables.

This unites space, time and electro-magnetic and gravitational phenomena into a theoretical unity. We are told that this is to be the corner-stone of a new knowledge. Dr. Einstein explained this on a blackboard with a piece of chalk as he addressed the other scientists and physicists in German.

Well, if the human mind must conceive of exactly what Einstein is talking about in order to be filled with accurate knowledge in the future, we are afraid that many people will be walking around, whose minds are but vacuums, void of understanding.

We can appreciate the expression of one of the reporters, who said in watching Einstein demonstrate, as occasionally Einstein looked over his way, he didn't know whether to smile or frown, approve or disapprove. But at any rate, these discussions help keep us humble.

PROTECTION FOR OIL INDUSTRY ESSENTIAL

There is an entirely false notion spread broadcast concerning an extra session of Congress. There is a great deal of legislation that needs to be enacted. If it is not done before the expiration of this Congress, there should be an extra session so that the needed legislation can be enacted.

Among other things which might be pointed out is the imperative demand for either a tariff on the importation of oil, or an absolute embargo on its importation. If there is anything more absurd than the action of a nation which manifestly believes in the policy of protection than to permit the unrestricted importation of any product which takes the place in use of a product of our own country, and throws our own people out of employment and ruins investors in our own enterprises, we have not yet discovered it.

This is exactly the issue in respect to oil. The great howl by the oil producers, and particularly those who are responsible for the importation of oil from other fields into the United States, is "over-production." Added to this is the cry of: "We must conserve our natural resources." So, as far as possible they have produced a situation where it is agreed to curtail production in this country, while the flow from other countries is coming in unvexed. Investors are being ruined, small companies are going to the wall, thousands of men are losing their employment and entirely because of this.

Note the conditions in part in the oil industry, according to H. E. Harris, editor of The National Oil Derrick, published right here at our door, at Santa Fe Springs:

During the year of 1930, there were 100,000,000 barrels of crude oil shut in on account of curtailment. At the same time there was imported into the United States 105,000,000 barrels of oil of which over 17,000,000 barrels was refined gasoline. By this it is shown that if there had been a protective tariff on oil, there would not have been the necessity of the drastic curtailment that has been necessary on account of the importations.

Can anyone of a fair mind find any reason why the people of this country should be compelled to shut in their wells, shut down their refineries—just to let a few greedy importing companies reap a big harvest by importing oil produced by peon labor in Venezuela and shipped to this country for 14 cents per barrel, which is the current price for tanker freight from Venezuela.

How are American producers going to compete with this kind of competition when they have to pay wages that white men are entitled to in order to live as white men? Also, the fact that these wells are only from 1500 to 2500 feet in depth and come in with a flow of 10,000 or 12,000 barrels per day. In the United States, the day of the gusher wells from shallow depths is past. The wells in this country are nearly all 4,000 feet or over, and the expense of drilling wells of this depth is very high.

Why should 300,000 men who have spent their lives in the oil industry be compelled to be thrown out of employment in order that a few greedy importing companies and a bunch of natives who do not need anything but a breech-clout and a few frijoles should wax fat at our misfortune?

Conservation of oil is like the conservation of coal that was started some years ago. Some one said we had better start conserving coal as we were about out, and new fuels were brought into use until today coal is a drug on the market. The same situation will take place in the oil industry.

With the elimination of the 105,000,000 barrels of oil that is being imported there would be an instant recovery in the business and thousands of men put back to work, and conditions would improve at once. There would be no trouble to get men to curtail under conditions where they knew that when they curtailed it was for their own benefit, but under present condition they feel that when they curtail they are simply opening the door for more imported oil. And, it certainly does not set well to have to go out of business under conditions of this kind.

Other industries are protected—why shouldn't the oil business be entitled to the same protection? Is it because some of the big fellows are making a lot of money out of the import business?

Sooner or later a tariff on oil has to be put on with the flow of oil that is going to be put in here from Russia before long, even the importing companies are going to howl for a tariff. The time to put it on is now, while there is still a chance to save the independent producer from absolute ruin.

Representatives of the independent oil companies have gone to Washington to make their appeal. Practically all acknowledge that either a tariff or embargo is absolutely necessary. If a law providing for this protection is not passed before the close of Congress, it certainly would be worth a special session to have it done.

Not only so, but it should be remembered that the people last fall elected Congressmen and United States Senators who were not members of this Congress. This Congress is the holdover. The people through their regularly elected representatives are not having a real voice at this time. If a session of the new Congress were had immediately, we have no doubt but what this and other legislation would be enacted with striking promptness.

Some people attempt to make a great deal of sport of our national law-abiding body, but it reflects the opinion of the people when it has a chance to operate. And unless these representatives who were elected several years ago afford relief such as demanded by the people, the Congressmen whom they elected last November should be given the opportunity promptly in March to supply the need.

LOOKING FORWARD

Time was when I looked with tremendous respect
To the keen, alert men in the Street,
Who financial conditions could swiftly dissect
And whose wisdom seemed ripe and replete.
They could trace any industry back to its source,
And its trend in the future foresee,
And by plotting a graph of its earlier course
They could tell what the market would be.

Small wonder I felt that these people owned cars
Of the newest and costliest sort,
That they bought vintage wines and fat dollar cigars
And patronized drama and sport—
That they dwelt in vast mansions and traveled abroad
When their labors had shattered their health.
Lacking shrewdness myself, I could only applaud
The wisdom that brought them their wealth.

But yesterday one of these wonders I met
Who declared that his fortune was shot,
And hoped that a few thousand bucks he might get
By selling his new private yacht.
And another bright broker, whose judgment and skill
In the art of investment I trusted,
Informed me he had not a sou in the till
But was utterly, hopelessly busted.

I know that these men have long studied the game
And are wise in the ways of finance;
Through long active lives they have made it their aim
To improve every possible chance.
But when highly trained experts get trimmed in the Street
Better sack up your money and bury it;
If the big bugs are wondering where they can eat
What show has the poor proletariat?

In Step With the Solar System

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

An enterprising merchant from Buffalo, now on a Mediterranean tour, writes us of his amazement in finding crude, wooden plows in use, which, he says, have not been improved since the reign of Julius Caesar. "Can you imagine," he asks, "any one being as unprogressive as that?"

Yes, we can. We note, for example, that this up-to-date business man dates his letter December 25, 1930. In doing so, he uses the crude calendar which was devised by Julius Caesar in the first century B. C., and which has not been improved since the fourth century A. D. Every one of us uses the same crude calendar every day.

There would be no objection to that, if this old calendar happened to be adapted to its purpose. But it is not. The calendar is supposed to measure the movements of the sun and the earth; but it does this rather carelessly. The sun and the earth pursue the even tenor of their ways. The latest reports from reputable astronomers show that the earth did not revolve more slowly in 1930 to conform with the business cycle; and it seems probable that even the Wickersham Report will not budge the earth from its orbit in 1931.

Far different is the calendar. It changes every year. As a matter of fact, it will be 28 years before we have another calendar precisely like the one we are using this year.

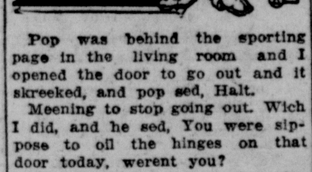

With the present chaotic calendar, each year begins on a different day of the week. The weeks overlap the divisions of the year in a different way each year. The months vary in length, and the number of week-days in a given month varies from year to year.

The result is endless confusion. Statistics from month to month, and from year to year, are not comparable. Thus scientific progress is constantly hampered by a man-made obstruction, as poorly adapted to its purpose as the wooden plow of Caesar's day.

This year, however, delegates of the Governments of the world, meeting at Geneva, probably will adopt the thirteen-month fixed calendar, as advocated by George Eastman of Rochester. This calendar fixes the days of the week to perpetual dates, always the same; makes the months uniformly four weeks in length; and keeps the calendar in step with the solar system.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

OUR SOCIAL SURPLUS

In this column, some weeks ago, and from the platform, lately, before two significant bodies of business and industrial leaders, I have made, in effect, the following statement:

If we are to insure the solvency and success of our industrial system, we must see to it that a larger share of the national income is shafted into the pockets of the consuming millions and that the margin of leisure for the millions is markedly increased.

Twenty years ago, this statement would have been set down as the jealous and irresponsible raving of a disinherited radical.

But experience has taught many men many things.

This statment has brought to my desk hundreds of letters, many of them from the undisputed leaders of American business and industry, and to date the file of the letters contains but three dissenting opinions.

If I were free to print the contents of these personal letters, the nation would get a new idea of some of the men at the top of the industrial order.

What are the considerations that have led the best brains in business and industrial circles to agree that a contention, that was considered but radical theory 20 years ago, is today the soundest of sound business policy

Let me try to state the case briefly.

When various important industries began to slow down production in 1929, they did not do it because there was a lack of purchasing power in the country, but only because there was a lack of purchasing.

Here is the great paradox: At the very moment when a slump in purchasing left industries with exproducts, there existed in the country far more than enough purchasing power to absorb all of these excess products and to call for greater production.

Why then did not this purchasing power come into play

When we really know the answer to this question, we have taken the first step towards devising ways and means to bring this adequate existing purchasing power back into play.

The reason that this purchasing power was kept out of active circulation was that it existed, in large part, as a social surplus that was not, from a broad national point of view and in the interest of sustained business activity, properly distributed.

This inactive surplus purchasing power was, in large part, in the hands of a small minority who, for personal and family consumption, did not desire to buy more, while the large majority who, for personal and family consumption, had every urge to buy more did not have much excess purchasing power.

In the last six months, I have talked with a score of conservative big business men who agree that this is the root fact of our economic situation, and that the biggest job confronting the leadership of business and industry is what to do about the wiser distribution of this social surplus of purchasing power.

Tomorrow I shall continue this discussion.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

ONE AT A TIME

"Well, young man, it is about time you got here."

"I'm not so late, mother."

"And you're not so early, either. If you'd come along home as you might have done if you'd been thinking of anybody else beside yourself, you might have saved me a trip to the store."

"Oh," bright sister interposes, "he couldn't come home right after school. He couldn't leave Marian to go home alone, could he?"

"You shut up. Mind your own business. You needn't talk about anybody else. All you do is chase Bert Isaacs round the town. That prune. If I couldn't——"

"Why don't you send that boy out of the room, Susan? He ought to be ashamed of himself, talking to his sister like that," says Grandmother from her seat on the sofa. "He gets worse and worse."

"Should think he might," says Uncle John, lowering his newspaper to take a favorite's part. "The whole family pick on him the minute he gets inside the door."

"Now don't encourage him, John. You know he is getting very loud and he never seems to think of anybody else——"

"Who does in this family?" roars the unlucky lad. "I can't have any fun, I can't do anything. I can't come into the house without you're all jumping on me. I'll——"

"Now don't get hot-headed. Keep cool. The trouble with you is that you talk too much," said Uncle John. "If I were you——" But the cherished son of the household had fled to his room, slamming the door behind him.

"I don't know what we are going to do with him. He gets worse and worse. You can't say a word to him but he flies up in a rage," said mother sadly.

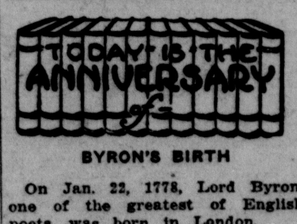

People do not hear and see what goes on under their noses. It is difficult to hear yourself talking, to see yourself in action. It is even more difficult to judge your own actions in their effects on those about you. But it is possible to help yourself a little. If you study the words and actions of those about you a light may appear that illumines yourself to yourself.

If the family is unhappy, if they nag each other, if they are given to temper and recriminations, look to yourself. Then look to the other members of the family. Make it a hard and fast rule, one of the few that you ever make, that one person corrects the children, and that person is the mother or the father. No one else must join in the discussion.

Then, for your own comfort, and for the welfare of the children, make your corrections in private. Never start a family discussion by speaking in critical tones to any member of the group while there is an audience. Somebody is certain to rush to the defense of one side or the other, and the row is on. One at a time is the only way to keep peace.

BYRON'S BIRTH

On Jan. 22, 1778, Lord Byron, one of the greatest of English poets, was born in London.

Two years after he entered Trinity college, Cambridge, he issued his first volume of verse, "Hours of Idleness." It was fiercely criticized, but instead of discouraging him, this incited him to continue with his poetry.

Following his return from a trip on the continent, Byron published the first part of his Childe Harold, which met with immediate success. A few years later he produced Don Juan, his masterpiece.

In the summer of 1823, Byron sailed for Greece, to aid with his influence and money in that country's struggle for independence. There he found nothing but confusion and contending chiefs, but in three months he succeeded in evoking some kind of order out of the chaos. His health, however, began to fail, and he died from exposure and fever on April 19, 1824.
